BRICKER'S LEAD IS GREATEST IN OHIO HISTORY

Governor Is Given 363,000 Majority Over Davey for New Record.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7—John W. Bricker, although swept back to office on the crest of the greatest plurality ever given a governor in Ohio, will have little more than a Republican working majority in the new general assembly.

Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's election showed today strong Democratic recoveries in both branches of the legislature. In the senate, the Republicans saved 20 seats, while the Democrats took 16. The old chamber favored the Republicans 27 to 8. The Republicans won 78 house seats, compared with 100 they held in the 1939-40 assembly, while the Democrats rose from 36 to 60.

Automatic reapportionment hiked the senate membership one to 36, and the house from 136 to 138.

While the Republicans maintained their working majority, it appeared that Democratic gains would deprive the administration leadership of sufficient strength for passage of emergency legislation, which needs 24 senate votes, for suspension of the rules.

Bricker's Lead Grows

Final unofficial tabulations gave Bricker a 363,000 plurality over Martin L. Davey of Kent, Democrat and former two-term governor. Bricker's plurality was approached only once before in an Ohio gubernatorial contest—when Myers Y. Cooper beat Davey by 248,787 in 1928. The final gubernatorial count was: Bricker 1,-818,335, Davey 1,455,284.

Bricker's vote was piled up despite President Roosevelt's sweep over Wendell Willkie by 142,000. Ohio's final presidential totals were: Roosevelt 1,728,909, Willkie 1,585,973.

The U. S. senate seat held by Democrat Vic Donahey, who retired, went to Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Republican, who won easily over John McSweeney of Wooster, former representative-at-large, but Burton's 144,000 plurality was sharply under Bricker's. Final senatorial tabulations showed: Burton 1,598,560 and McSweeney 1,454,012.

Schorr Makes Statement

Ed D. Schorr, Republican state chairman, asserted "the tremendous increase in Governor Bricker's plurality over that of two years ago is evidence that at home, at least, Ohioans want and will demand decency and dignity in government."

The Democratic gains extended into the congressional rolls as well as the legislature, breaking the Republicans' domination of the state delegation to win equal representation.

Democrats, who campaigned chiefly on New Deal principles, unseated four Republicans to gain 12 positions, the same number Republicans now hold. Stephen M. Young (D), who left congress in 1936 to run unsuccessfully for governor, defeated L. L. Marshall (R) for one of Ohio's two at-large congress seats. George H. Bender, Cleveland Republican leader, retained the other at-large seat by defeating Francis Durbin, Lima Democrat.

Two Democrats won state office. Joseph T. Ferguson whipped Republican Joseph T. Tracy to retain his position as auditor, while John E. Sweeney beat Republican Edward J. Hummel for secretary of state. Sweeney said during his campaign that if elected, he would retain as elections expert the present secretary of state, George M. Neffner, who was unopposed to fill out the unexpired term of the late Earl Griffith.

G. O. P. Winners

Incumbent Republican state office holders who won reelection were Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, and Treasurer Don Ebright.

Arthur M. Day, who "broke" with the Republican organization by indorsing Democrat Robert J. Bulkley for U. S. senator in 1938, lost his race as an independent for reelection to the Ohio supreme court term beginning Jan. 2. On the basis of nearly 8,000 precincts he trailed Gilbert Bettman (R) of Cincinnati by a wide margin. Judge MacBride (D) was third.

For the supreme court term beginning Jan. 1, Charles B. Zimmerman (D) was reelected over Clinton D. Boyd. Edward C. Turner, Republican incumbent, was named to fill a two-year vacancy created by the death of George S. Myers, a Democrat.

Davey's defeat marked the worst showing in the tree surgeon's colorful political career—in which he sought the governorship three times and won it twice.

Bricker's huge plurality apparently was helped along by separation of state and national ballots, which the legislature approved at the governor's behest.

ICKES OFFERS TO QUIT AS INTERIOR SECRETARY

Believes Others Should Follow His Example.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Secretary Ickes submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today offering to step out of his interior department post when and if the White House chooses to accept it.

Ickes told his press conference he rejoiced in Mr. Roosevelt's reelection and in offering to resign acted only to give the President a free hand should he desire to make a cabinet change.

Ickes acted similarly after the President's reelection in 1936, as is customary, but not all his colleagues in the cabinet followed suit.

He said he believed that all presidential appointive officials should do as he had.

BEIGHTLER QUITS ROAD POST, SOURS ADVANCED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7—Robert S. Beightler, commanding general of the 37th army division at Camp Shelby, Miss., today forwarded to Gov. Bricker his resignation as state highway director. Beightler was given a leave of absence when called into army service.

The governor said the resignation would be accepted and that Hal G. Sours, of Akron, now acting director, would be named head of the department.

REPUBLICANS GAIN ONE GOVERNORSHIP

Only Two of 33 State Contests Still in Doubt.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Vote totals pointed today a possible net Republican gain of one governorship as late tabulations of Tuesday's record balloting showed a shift in party control of ten state administrations, with only two of 33 gubernatorial races still in doubt.

Republicans marked up five victories in previous Democratic territory—Delaware, Illinois, Missouri, Montana and Nebraska in electing 14 governors Tuesday. They also won in Maine in September to bring this year's total to 15.

Democrats took four governorships—Connecticut, Idaho, Michigan and Rhode Island—away from the opposing party in electing 17 state executives.

In addition, a Democrat William H. Burke appeared to have unseated Gov. Payne H. Ratner, Kansas Republican, although an official canvass of the vote was needed to determine the winner.

In Washington Arthur B. Langlie, Republican, had a lead of 3,622 votes over former Senator Clarence C. Dill, Democrat, but 78 precincts were still to be heard from and there were an estimated 22,000 absentee votes to be counted next week. Previously, the state had a Democratic administration.

DRAFT ORDER NUMBERS SET

First List Posted Here; First Physical Examinations To Take Place Sunday.

Marion county's draft machinery, slowed down for the last few days while order numbers were assigned, began to gain momentum today in preparation for meeting the first call for men later this month.

The first registrants, outside of volunteers, to receive their eight-page questionnaires will begin receiving them Monday or Tuesday. The county's 25 volunteers have already received theirs.

One of the three draft boards, No. 3 (rural), has completed its list of order numbers and has them posted at the post office. The Star also has a copy of the names of this board's registrants with their serial and order numbers.

Board No. 1 (Wards 1, 2 and 3) expected to complete its list late today or tomorrow. It will also post its list at the post office and send a copy to The Star.

Board No. 2 (Wards 4, 5 and 6) is about half done with its listing job, but planned today to begin sending out mail notices and serial and order numbers to registrants already assigned order numbers. Its list may be complete this week.

First Examinations

The first call for physical examinations went out today from Board No. 2 which called the first four of its six volunteers to report at the office of Dr. T. H. Sutherland, examiner, at 10 a. m. Sunday. Dr. Floyd Yeager is alternate to Dr. Sutherland and may assist.

The other draft boards have not assigned any physical examination dates yet.

The four called up, in the order in which they volunteered, are:

John R. Elliott, 27, of 264 South State street; Charles Allen Shealy, 22, of 301 South Vine street; Jack P. Markwith, 22, of 399 East Center street; Paul A. Youngblood, 28, of 149 Olney avenue.

Two more volunteers were listed today for the county, bringing the total to 25.

Board No. 3 (rural) reported George B. Shriver, 33, of Waldo as its fifth volunteer.

Board No. 1 (Wards 1, 2 and 3) listed Earl L. West, colored, of 552 Polk street as its fourteenth.

Board No. 2 has six volunteers.

All the county's boards are still awaiting word from state headquarters as to how many men to send and when to send them for the first call. Information to date indicates that there will be only three or four men called from each board on Nov. 18 or soon thereafter.

It is expected the board will follow the policy of getting enough men ready in advance to meet any reasonable quota.

Sending out of questionnaires, a few at a time to men with low order numbers, is the first step in this preparation.

When the questionnaires are returned the boards will classify the men. Physical examinations may change classifications.

MOTHER OF TWINS JAILED

SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 7—Mrs. Clara Lucille O'Brien, 23, of Springfield, Mass., was in the county jail today, on a charge of abandoning her twin sons on the steps of a church rectory here three days ago. She was arrested in Toledo last night, where she told police she found the three-week-old babies a hindrance in traveling with her husband, a salesman.

PRESIDENT GIVEN GREAT WELCOME IN WASHINGTON

Italians Report Big Push About To Start in Greece

Observers Say Decisive Battle Near; London Has Longest Night Air Alarm of War.

By The Associated Press

Italy's long-expected "big push" in the 11-day-old war with Greece was reported under way today as the Italian high command said Fascist divisions had advanced beyond the Kalamas river on the northwest battlefront.

The Italian invaders had reached the river eight days ago in their thrust from Albania.

Dispatches from the northeast front said the siege of Koritza, key Italian supply base 10 miles inside Albania, where 30,000 Fascist troops have been reported "trapped," appeared to be reaching a critical phase.

(Unconfirmed frontier advices reaching Salonika yesterday said Greek mountain fighters, swarming down from heights around the city, had entered Koritza and captured thousands of Italian prisoners.

(Military experts discounted the reports, however, pointing out that the Greeks would be in a more favorable position by clinging to the mountains—beyond reach of Italian mechanized forces.)

Both sides were reported rushing reinforcements to the Koritza sector, with the Greeks still holding the heights above the Albanian town of Bigliste, east of Koritza, despite strong Italian counter-attacks.

Decisive Battle Near

A decisive battle, it was said, appeared imminent.

Greek and British warplanes bombed Koritza and Argirocastro, another Albanian town, while Italian bombers smashed at the Greek town of Phlorina with reported heavy casualties ensuing.

A laconic communique by Premier Mussolini's high command disclosed the start of the "big push."

Dispatches said that Italian troops had made "small advances" along the Greek west coast, and that their columns were bombed by Greek planes.

Greece's high command acknowledged that Greek forces "retreated slightly" yesterday at the extreme lower (western) end of the 100-mile battlefront, in the Epirus sector along the Ionian sea.

Neutral Yugoslavia took a sharply stronger stand in the Balkan conflict with a government warning it would answer with "armed force" any repetition of attacks on Yugoslav territory—such as the bombing of Bitolj by unidentified foreign planes Tuesday.

In the battle of Britain, Nazi warplanes gave London's subway-sleeping missions their longest night attack of the war, and in Southampton rescue squads still dug this morning for the dead and living entombed in the ruins of many buildings.

School Destroyed

Students and teachers were buried under the rubble of a Southampton school smashed by three German bombs, and clerks and typists were trapped under a demolished row of office buildings.

Other Nazi raiders scattered bombs over a wide area from the south coast of England to Scotland.

Hitler's high command reported heavy aerial blows against the British merchant marine.

Long-range RAF bombers retaliated by attacking the Berlin suburb of Spandau, the London air ministry reported, while other RAF bombs were dropped on "a concentration of shipping" at Cuxhaven, Germany, and on a convoy of ships off Den Helder, Holland.

RAF night raiders also rained explosives on German "Big Bertha" gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez, the air ministry said.

Berlin asserted that RAF planes which attempted to raid the capital were forced to turn back before they could drop any bombs, but the Nazi high command admitted that attacks "on German territory" killed and wounded several persons.

From the sound of some of the raiders' motors, British observers said they were sure the Italians were taking an increasingly large part in the assaults upon Britain.

Although some persons were killed and injured in London and a number of homes and apartment houses were destroyed, the British government said damage and casualties resulting from the widespread raids were not in general large.

Earlier this morning German long range guns on the French coast opened up and shelled the Dover area for more than two hours.

Soviet Russia, celebrating the 23rd anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, reaffirmed a policy of armed neutrality. Russia, which in the past 14 months has gained territory from six neighbors, was reported unofficially in Turkey to have withdrawn some troops from the Turkish border as a goodwill gesture.

World's Longest Novel Begins New Phase in The Star

With today's chapter Adele Garrison's interesting feature, "Marriage Meddlers" comes to a close. Friday a new novel, "Pitfalls of Love" will launch a new phase of the author's story of Madge and Dicky and their family and friends. Read this interesting human serial story, which appears daily in The Star.

"Pitfalls of Love" is the seventeenth phase of that record-breaking tale, "Revelations of a Wife," the longest novel in the world—25 years old. The first installment appeared in August, 1915.

The dozen or more characters of that phase, "Revelations of a wife," with one or two exceptions, eliminated by death, have figured in all the phases. To them have been added others, until more than 25 major characters move through the author's pages, and have made themselves living and breathing friends to her millions of readers in 150 newspapers.

FOOTWEAR SOUGHT FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

Annual drive for shoes and galoshes for needy children will be conducted Friday by the Marion Parent-Teacher association council.

Those who have old shoes and galoshes for the drive have been asked to take them to the nearest public school, where P.-T. A. welfare chairmen will collect them and turn them over to A. T. Allen, visiting teacher in the public schools.

The P.-T. A. council will employ a WPA cobbler to mend those shoes in need of repair.

For the last several years the council has sponsored the drive as a means of helping those children who otherwise would have to be absent from school.

World Sees U. S. Vote As Approval of British Aid

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The world at large appears to be accepting the American election as indorsement of Washington's policy of stone-walling against armed aggression, and of rendering all aid to Britain short of war—an appraisal which in my view is bound to impose a large degree of caution upon both aggressor nations and those which might feel impelled to join them.

If that seems boastful, I would point out that the triple alliance itself—Germany, Italy and Japan—in recent weeks has been displaying deep concern over our continued heavy support of the enemy they are trying to destroy. This worry has deepened with the Nazi failure to invade and crush England.

The government controlled press of the three musketeers has alternately chattered threats at us like an angry blue-jay, and tried by cajolery and bribes of territory to swing us into line with the totalitarian "new order." Meantime non-belligerent nations like Russia and Turkey have continued their resistance to axis pressure to join the array against England.

In this connection it is a coincidence of great importance that Russia last night—right on the heels of our election—announced that the Soviet's policy is one of continued neutrality and armed vigilance.

Now it would be misleading you if I gave the impression that I have any information entitling me to say that the Russian announcement was connected with the American election. I can only express the belief that there was a connection, since Russia has been watching our attitude toward Britain carefully.

The Turks, upon whom Britain must depend so heavily if the axis powers try to force the Dardanelles and break into the Near East, showed their pleasure. The Turkish press—and that of the rest of southeastern Europe—figures that the American [illegible]

CORNERSTONE LAID BY PRESIDENT

After staying up late election night to listen to returns, President Roosevelt spent part of the following morning abed and then went down to the village of Hyde Park to lay the cornerstone of a new post office. It was his first appearance following the precedent-shattering vote which selected Mr. Roosevelt for a third term in the presidency. With him is his son, John. (Associated Press Photo)

MARION YOUTH BADLY BURNED

Paul Wiseman in Critical Condition After Gasoline Blast at Ashland.

Paul Wiseman, 22, son of Pearl Wiseman of 350 Chester streets, is in critical condition at City hospital in Ashland as the result of burns suffered Monday afternoon when he was enveloped in flames following the explosion of a gasoline tank of an automobile, near which he was working with an acetylene torch.

The accident occurred in Ashland at the yards of the Malo Iron & Coal Co., which is operated by Warren Malo, now of Ashland and a former Marion resident. Malo and two other persons who were nearby suffered burns when they went to Wiseman's aid.

Wiseman, former employe of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., went to Ashland to work several weeks ago.

Using Torch

At the time of the accident he was using an acetylene torch to dismantle the framework of an automobile which was being salvaged.

Sparks from the torch apparently ignited a small amount of gasoline in the tank of another nearby car. The second car also was being dismantled and several days before had been burned to remove the upholstering and interior, a method used in salvaging scrap iron. At that time the same tank which was responsible for the accident was subjected to extreme heat but did not explode.

Clothing Burned Off

The explosion made Wiseman a flaming torch. Malo and others extinguished the flames and called an ambulance. The victim's clothing had been burned away, leaving only his shoes, cap and a pair of goggles. Attendants at the hospital reported he suffered third degree burns and that flesh on seven-eighths of his body was seared. They said the first 72 hours of treatment constituted a "critical period" and that if Wiseman survived until tonight he had a "50-50 chance" for recovery.

Quick action of Malo and others in extinguishing the flames and getting Wiseman to the hospital within a few minutes after the accident was credited with aiding his chances of recovery.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION AT NEW PEAK IN OCTOBER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Industrial production reached a new peak in October, the federal reserve board reported today, crediting the defense and prospective defense program.

The board estimated the October production level at 141 per cent of the 1935-39 average, or one point above the previous December high. [illegible] was 140 per cent.

MERCURY DOWN TO 24 IN SEASON'S FIRST FREEZE

Marion residents received a sharp reminder that November is the month when autumn ends and winter begins when the mercury skidded to 24 degrees here last night. It brought the first freezing weather to central Ohio, the previous low thermometer reading having been 33 degrees.

Indications that another chilly night is on its way were noted in the weatherman's forecast of "not much change in temperature" tonight and Friday.

Yesterday the thermometer readings ranged between 34 and 52 degrees, in comparison with temperatures ranging from 30 to 48 degrees on the same day last year, according to Weather Observer E. H. Haffenberger.

MARION FIRM GETS $20,258 WAR ORDER

Baker Wood Preserving Co. To Furnish Ties for Arsenal.

Announcement of the award of contracts to the Baker Wood Preserving Co. of Marion and the Galion Iron Works and Mfg. Co. of Galion was made today from Washington, D. C., by the war department, The Associated Press reported.

The contract awarded the local concern is for railroad cross ties and amounts to $20,258.58. Officials of the Baker Wood Preserving Co. reported that initial shipments of the ties to Ravenna, the site on which the government is building a munitions arsenal, have already been made and that shipment will be completed this month.

The contract of the Galion company is for a road roller and amounts to $3,774.

DEBT LIMIT HIKE TO BE ASKED SOON

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Secretary Morgenthau said today that he would ask congress to increase the national debt limit to 60 or 65 billion dollars to care for possible deficits up to June 30, 1942.

Announcing this at a press conference, Morgenthau told reporters:

"We've just begun to rearm."

He repeated the phrase three times to emphasize it.

The treasury chief said also that congress might be asked at the present session to make available for general financing the $4,000,000,000 which it authorized for special defense borrowing. That sum would be included in the 15 to 20 billions which Morgenthau said might be needed during the next fiscal year. The present debt limit, with this $4,000,000,000 included, is $49,000,000,000.

Asked whether it was conceivable that government expenditures could be put on a "pay as you go" basis shortly, Morgenthau replied: "I don't think it's possible."

The secretary said that with the $4,000,000,000 debt limit "practically reached" the treasury found itself in a rather difficult position.

HUGE THRONG OUT IN CAPITAL FOR WELCOME

President Says He Likes Life on Farm but Would Rather Live in Washington.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—President Roosevelt, first man in history to be selected for 12 years in the White House, told a welcoming throng of thousands today that he and the first lady liked farm life, but that of all the cities in the country they would rather live in Washington.

He made the statement with a laugh in a talk to a crowd which thronged the plaza outside Union station upon his arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y.

The Chief Executive, fresh from his third term election triumph, thanked "my old friends of Washington" for their reception and added "it isn't as if we (himself and Mrs. Roosevelt) were new people. Your turning out to see us means that we are getting on pretty well.

"And we are very happy, both of us, to be back here for a little bit longer.

"You all know how very much we like farm life, but of all the cities we would rather live in Washington, D. C., than any place else."

Happy Over Victory

The President said he wanted to tell the crowd "how glad we are of the result two days ago", and reiterated that they were glad to return to Washington.

Henry A. Wallace, vice president-elect, and Mrs. Roosevelt rode with the President in his open car through throngs that lined the way to the White House.

Captain E. A. Sweeney of the district fire department estimated that 50,000 to 60,000 persons were gathered on the station plaza alone.

Near the spot where the President's car stopped for his brief address, the army band struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again," Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 campaign song, and upon conclusion of his remarks the band swung into what leader Captain Thomas Darcy called the new Roosevelt favorite—"God Bless America."

Lots of Bands

The Navy band held forth on a lower level of the Union station as the President left his special train, and the marine band was on hand at the White House.

Smiling and waving his hat, Mr. Roosevelt rode slowly down Pennsylvania avenue between massed crowds that cheered and yelled. Segments of the throng broke off as his car passed the many ran along the way trying for a continuing view of the man whose three-time victories have assured his place in history.

At the White House, the White House police force lined up, each man at attention. The staff of the executive mansion added its welcome.

After Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt went indoors, the gates of the White House grounds were opened for the first time in months and the people flowed through them. "We want Roosevelt," they chanted and roared."

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt came out on the front portico and waved in response. Cries for a speech were unavailing.

Flags whipped in the crisp autumnal air. School children lined the curbs. Bands were marshalled.

Vote About Complete

The decisiveness of his triumph was reflected in the hourly more complete tabulation of the nation's popular vote. With 119,168 out of the country's 127,245 voting units accounted for, the ballot totals stood:

Mr. Roosevelt—25,954,582.
Wendell L. Willkie—24,591,032.

The president had 28 states to

Michigan Swings to Willkie Column

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Nov. 7—Revised unofficial presidential vote totals, now virtually complete, tipped Michigan back into the Republican column this afternoon. With three of the state's 3632 precincts missing, the vote was: Willkie, 1,028,-987; Roosevelt, 1,025,774.

Belated returns from straggling precincts in out-state districts where the Republican nominee showed his greatest early strength gave the advantage, never too substantial, to predominantly Democratic Wayne county (Detroit) gave the President midway of the count.

Michigan's change, with the count still incomplete, made the electoral vote standing 448 for Roosevelt and 82 for Willkie.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Court of Common Pleas, Marion County, Ohio, Case No. 26344.
The Union Central Life Insurance Company, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. Dorothy Genevieve Corbin, et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of an Order of Sale issued from said Court to me directed in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Marion, Marion County, Ohio, on Saturday the 23rd day of November, 1940 at 10:00 o'clock A. M., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Marion and State of Ohio, to-wit:

Situated in Bowling Green Township, in the County of Marion and State of Ohio, being part of Survey No. 2952, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the Southeast corner of said original survey to a beech and two sugar trees; thence South 80¾ degs. West 60 poles to an elm 10 inches in diameter, corner tree and Southeast corner to W. J. Moore; thence with the east line of said Moore, North 5½ degs. West 107 poles to a stake in the line of Prettyman from which an oak 3 inches in diameter bears South 81 degs. West 12 links and an ash 6 inches in diameter bears South 42¼ degs. West 9 links; thence North 80¾ degs. East 60.05 poles to a stone in the center of road from which a box elder 6 inches in diameter bears South 87 degs. West 60 links; thence with the center of said road South 8½ degs. 107 poles to the place of beginning, containing 40 acres of land, be the same more or less.

Also, the tract of land adjoining the above described premises bounded and described as follows:

Being a part of Survey No. 2952 in the above named Township, and County, beginning at a stake in the South line of Hays' land from which an oak 14 inches in diameter bears South 20 degs. East 55 links South 8½ degs. East 65 poles to a stake from which a large burr oak stump bears North 77½ degs. East 41 links; thence with the line of Bishop's land North 80¾ degs. East 63.5 poles to a stake in the center of a county road, Bishop's Northeast corner; thence North 8½ degs. West 68 poles with the center of said road to Hay's Southeast corner, a stake; thence South 80¾ degs. West 63.5 poles to the place of beginning containing 27 acres.

Also, the following described premises:

Situated in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Green Camp and being Lot Number one (1) of the subdivision of Military Survey No. 10910 made by Floyd Beckley, Surveyor for Wilson Imbody, on July 29th, 1876, and recorded in Marion County Plat Records, Volume 1, page 209, and containing 98.31 acres, more or less.

Said tracts containing in all 185.81 acres, more or less.

Said premises being improved with an eight room frame dwelling, barn, garage and other usual farm buildings on the 98.31 acre tract located on the east side of what is known as the Essex Road; and a new dwelling, barn, garage and other usual farm buildings on the 87 acre tract located on the west side of the Essex Road. Said premises being approximately 3½ miles south of Agosta, Ohio.

Said premises being appraised at $13,250.00 and cannot sell for less than two-thirds of said appraisement.

Terms of Sale: Cash on day of sale.

Advertised: October 24, 31, November 7, 14, 20th, 1940.

FRED F. MILLER, Sheriff,
Marion County, Ohio.
John H. Clark, Attorney.

STOCK PRICES GAIN SHARPLY

Activity Laid To Morgenthau's Request for Increase in Debt Limit.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 — Stocks moved upward sharply today in a fast recovery from their post-election lows, some leaders advancing around five points.

Wall Street analysts laid the burst of activity to Secretary Morgenthau's request for an increase in the national debt limit, saying buyers evidently held such action to have inflationary implications.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem established new highs for the year. Others prominent on the upturn included Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, United Aircraft, Douglas, Sperry, American Telephone, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Great Northern preferred and Standard Oil of N. J.

Bonds shared in the rise.

Governmental defense buying was reported extending into the rubber industry, with one company expecting a $5,000,000 order.

Military powder makers announced plans for expanded facilities in order to increase operations in the near future.

SOUVENIRS OF WAR

Ramsay Homa, 11, brings to American a souvenir of the Battle of Britain, bits of anti-aircraft shrapnel picked up near his home in a London suburb. He and his brother were sent to New York for safety.

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Nov. 7—The wool market in Boston was rather quiet today. Fine territory wools received an occasional inquiry, but sales were slow. Medium grades of domestic wools were very quiet. Prices were steady on domestic wools. Holders of foreign apparel wools were inclined to advance asking prices. Buyers generally were showing a waiting attitude.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Nov. 8

JUDGING by the weak positions of the ruling planets this may be a day of routine events with matters moving in customary grooves. In these there may be fair success, with promise of expansion, progress and rather pleasant personal relations. It is probable that social, friendly or sympathetic understanding may dominate or influence business decisions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which matters may move along in moderate grooves for successful approach to not too exalted ambitions. This happy state of affairs may be assisted by the support and friendly understanding of social or cultural comrades.

A child born on this day may be fairly ambitious, making a moderate success by its efficiency, expansive ideas and humanitarian and friendly impulses.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

By ANNE ADAMS

PATTERN. 4515

"Small fry" love to wear bolero-dresses to school and play—they're so pert and jaunty. And mothers like them for the extra warmth they give a youngster on wintry days. This gay bolero style, Pattern 4515 by Anne Adams, is full of original, gay touches, yet as simple as ABC to sew up at home. The buoyantly flaring skirt is panelled all 'round with the two front panels "upped" for a high waistline. The cute rounded collar looks well trimmed with self-fabric or ribbon bow; buttons and ric-rac add colorful touches. Notice the nicely cut lines of the perky short sleeved bolero. For a three-piece effect, make the whole upper part of the frock in lively contrast to the skirt and bolero.

Pattern 4515 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, bolero and skirt, takes 1¾ yards 36 inch fabric; blouse, ¾ yard contrast.

. Ward, 75, of 761 North reet was injured when by an automobile on North street near Fairground shortly before 6 o'clock ...

as taken to the Smith for treatment and later to ... The attending pyhsi- reported he suffered a neck and deep facial ... were told the accident occurred when Mr. Ward, who was crossing from the east side to the west side of North Main street, walked in the path of a southbound car driven by Fred L. Crabbe of Columbus. Witnesses said Mr. Ward had nearly reached the west curb when he seemed to take a step backwards into the southbound lane of traffic. He was taken to the hospital in the Boyd ambulance.

A car driven by Police Captain E. C. Mackan and a parked automobile owned by Charles Hostetler of 316 South Main street were damaged in a traffic mishap last night on South Main street near Columbia street. Capt. Mackan, who was northbound, told officers he hit the Hostetler car when he swerved to avoid a collision with an auto driven by Frank C. Hughes of 342 South State street. Police reports show that the Hughes car was southbound on Main street and that Mr. Hughes was making a left turn into an alley.

OHIO SPLITS HOUSE SEATS

Democrats Gain Four To Give Each Party 12 in Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Ohioans in the next session of congress are expected to contest for several important committee posts made vacant by the defeat of four Buckeye members in Tuesday's election and the retirement of three others.

A committee prize is the appropriations committee seat vacated by Rep. Dudley White (R) of the Tirteenth district, who forewent a chance for reelection to the house to seek unsuccessfully the senatorial nomination.

Ohioans from farm areas will be interested in retaining for the state the agriculture committee seat of Rep. James G. Polk (D) of the Sixth district, who is retiring from public life after ten years in the house.

Buckeye members also will be loath to give up the seat of Rep. Earl Lewis (R) of the Eighteenth district on the important flood control committee in which the state has two other members, Representatives Harold K. Claypool (D) of the Eleventh and Robert Secrest (D) of the Fifteenth. Secrest and Claypool were re-elected but Lewis lost to former Rep. Lawrence E. Imhoff (D).

Rep. Harry N. Routzohn (R) of the third, who was defeated by Greg Holbrook (D), gained nationwide attention as a member of the house committee which investigated the national labor relations board. Routzohn's regular committee assignments were labor, pensions, revisions of law, and World war veterans legislation, all important to the Buckeye state.

Representative-at-Large L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland is a member of the civil service and patents committee. He lost to Stephen M. Young (D), former congressman-at-large.

A seat on the postoffice and postroads committee is held by Rep. Jim Seccombe (R) who was defeated by former Rep. William R. Thom (D) in the Sixteenth district.

Democrats gained four house seats in Tuesday's election and won equal representattion with Republicans on Ohio's house delegation of 24 members.

Unofficial returns from Tuesday's election of Ohio representatives showed the following winners: (X indicates incumbent)

Representative - at - Large — G. H. Bender (R-X) and Stephen M. Young (D).

First district — Charles H. Elston (R-X).

Second—William E. Hess (R-X).

Third—Greg Holbrook (D).

Fourth—Robert F. Jones (R-X).

Fifth—Cliff Clevenger (R-X).

Sixth—Jacob E. Davis (D).

Seventh — Clarence J. Brown (R-X).

Eighth — Frederick C. Smith (R-X).

Ninth—John F. Hunter (D-X).

Tenth — Thomas A. Jenkins (R-X).

Eleventh — Harold K. Claypool (D-X).

Twelfth—John M. Vorys (R-X).

Thirteenth—A. D. Baumhart Jr. (R).

Fourteenth — Dow W. Harter (D-X).

Fifteenth — Robert T. Secrest (D-X).

Sixteenth — William R. Thom (D).

Seventeenth — J. Harry McGregor (R-X).

Eighteenth — Lawrence E. Imhoff (D).

Nineteenth—Michael J. Kirwan (D-X).

Twentieth—Martin L. Sweeney (D-X).

Twenty-First — Robert Crosser (D-X).

Twenty-Second — Mrs. Frances P. Bolton (R-X).

An Irish Smile Wins State Post for J. E. Sweeney

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7—John E. Sweeney's Irish smile started him in public office—and as Ohio's new secretary of state-elect it is broader than ever today.

Sweeney has made a big jump in politics—from bailiff of Cuyahoga county common pleas court to one of the state's chief offices.

During Sweeney's four-year coursee at Lake Erie school of law, he met common pleas Judge Samuel H. Silbert, an instructor. Silbert liked Sweeney's grin which is ever ready to squint up his eyes and spread from ear to ear.

After he passed the bar examinations in 1928, Silbert offered him the job of court bailiff. He has held that position for 12 years and Judge Silbert refers to him as "my secretary."

But he is to be Ohio's secretary now—and to Columbus he will take his wife, Helen, and their daughter, Jacqueline, who was born on election day six years ago. He is 42 years old.

Sweeney is of medium size, dark-haired and wears glasses. He is mild-mannered and has a keen sense of humor.

Democrats were surprised when they nominated him. He never ran for elective office before. They were surprised again at his method of campaign. He uoncentrated his limited efforts on contacts with precinct committeemen, figuring them to be the backbone of the party's strength. He sold them on Sweeney.

John McSweeney, Wooster Democrat who was defeated in the U. S. senatorial vote, cited the fact that Sweeney's name preceded McSweeney on the ballot and said "it cost me thousands of votes because our names are quite similar."

Sweeney is the son of a grocer and was educated in Cleveland public schools. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Eagles and Moose lodges, the Irish-American club and Frelheit society.

LIQUOR DEALERS OF 3 COUNTIES PLAN MEETING

The Tri-County Retail Liquor Dealers' association, composed of members from Marion, Crawford and Wyandot counties, will hold a meeting tomorrow night at Hotel Harding. Speakers will be Carl Henderson and John Fetterman of Cleveland, representatives of the state association, Elmer Richter of Columbus, membership secretary, Earl Thomas of Marion, state representatives, D. A. Liggitt of Belle Center, state senator, and state representatives from Crawford and Wyandot counties, according to Thomas Fisher, secretary of the Marion County Retail Liquor Dealers' association, who has made arrangements for the meeting.

SCHOOL WORKERS VOICE THANKS FOR LEVY VOTE

The overwhelming majority given renewal of the three-mill levy for Marion's public school operating expenses is regarded by the teachers, the board of education and all others in the system is "a real expression of confidence and approval of our efforts," Supt. E. E. Holt said today.

The superintendent said the interest of all the people was responsible for the heavy vote given the levy Tuesday. He praised the work of members of the Parent-Teacher association and parents and interested persons of the schools for their personal efforts to contact every home in the city and Marion township in the interest of renewing the levy.

MANY BOND ISSUES REJECTED BY VOTERS

Voters, However, Generally Favor School Levies.

By The Associated Press

A smattering of reports on special bond issues and tax levy questions on Tuesday's ballot throughout Ohio indicated today that voters rejected extensive expenditures for public works projects but approved most levies for school and general operations.

Although a large portion of the votes still remained uncounted, four major Hamilton county bond issues totaling $11,900,000 apparently were turned down.

The issues included: $2,000,000 for vocational schools in the Cincinnati school district; $4,400,000 for city streets; $3,500,000 for a new county home; and $2,000,000 for a new municipal auditorium.

Rejected in Springfield were a $800,000 bond issue for a city waterworks and a three-mill levy to pay $280,000 in municipal debts.

Alliance voters defeated a proposed $30,000 municipal airport bond issue while a $40,000 school board sponsored recreation park issue was beaten at New Boston.

A $17,000 municipal building bond issue was approved at Canal Winchester.

School levies passed at Van Wert, Bluffton and Delphos.

Columbus voters overwhelmingly rejected a gas rate ordinance submitted as a compromise between the city and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., after 15 years of service. The ordinance would have increased rates.

Columbiana county voters rejected by three-tenths of one per cent a two-mill levy for construction of a new county jail at Lisbon. The old jail, condemned as a fire hazard, was abandoned last February. The vote was 21,497 for the levy and 11,721 against with a 65 per cent favorable vote needed for passage.

The Toledo electorate approved renewal of a two-mill levy for public schools.

Although East Liverpool voters turned down a one-mill garbage disposal levy, they approved a three-mill school operating tax and a one-mill city relief levy.

Rossford voted an extra three-mill levy for three years for school purposes, while Maumee approved a bond issue for a swimming pool.

A three-mill Chillicothe school operating levy was renewed. Canal Winchester voters approved a $17,000 bond issue for a new municipal building.

Surviving with the husband is her mother who lives at the Pettey home. Mr. and Mrs. Pettey were married Feb. 11, 1920, at Magnetic Springs.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Methodist church at Magnetic Springs. Rev. J. O. Lehman, assisted by Rev. Howard Mumma, will officiate. Burial will be made in Claiborne cemetery.

FIVE WORKMEN DIE AS TUNNEL COLLAPSES

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7—Five Negro workmen were crushed to death today by the collapse of a nearby Stowe township traffic tunnel which they were repairing.

Eight men were in the tunnel at the time a section of the concrete roof fell but three—warned of danger by a "sudden loud, cracking" noise—escaped. One of three, William Peay, 30, was injured.

Bodies of the five were dug out of the debris five hours after the accident by rescuers working with steam shovels.

The tunnel, about 15 feet high and 800 feet long, runs through a hill connecting two communities. It was condemned 10 years ago but recently, in response to complaints, the county commissioners ordered it repaired.

Marriage of 20 Years Annulled in Delaware Co.

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 7—A marriage which took place more than 20 years ago was declared null and void Saturday in Delaware county common pleas court, following a suit for annulment filed last March by a resident of northwestern Delaware county who claimed his wife had been married three times prior to their marriage and had neglected to obtain divorces from any of his predecessors.

The court decision nullified the marriage of Hester O. Gill and Emily Lonkowski which took place, according to the plaintiff, in Johnson county, Indiana, on Oct. 17, 1919.

It was found in the court action that at the time of the ostensible marriage "the defendant Emily Lonkowski had been previously married and was not divorced and had a previous husband living from whom she had not been divorced at the time of her attempt to marry Hestor O. Gill and at the time of her separation from Hester O. Gill."

The Valiants

IT IS plain that the Greeks being systematically butchered by Mussolini's martinets, with the assistance of some of Hitler's experts, are guilty of being in the way—nothing more. They are militarily weak. Whatever they may do at the outset, they are doomed to defeat, like the Finns. Yet, they are fighting and dying as though they believed they could win.

This is a puzzling situation to those who don't understand valor, or who don't care to understand it under certain circumstances. The Greeks could have saved their lives by letting the marauders take what they want, which in this case is a free hand to operate against Great Britain from all points of the Grecian peninsula. It would have meant surrender of their sovereignty and self-respect, but they would have had peace.

The British could have peace on the same terms. The French, after futile resistance, accepted peace on those terms. The Austrians had no chance to decide; like the Danes and Norwegians, they were engulfed. The Poles fought back and achieved nothing but nobility, which is not a negotiable commodity in wartime. The Finns likewise contributed to the saga of human valor, but lost the Karelian peninsula for their pains.

Perhaps the Greeks didn't know what a futile thing valor has seemed to be lately. Or perhaps, knowing, they can't forget that from the days when the spark of modern civilization flashed from the mists of antiquity it was kept alive by valiant men, first in their country, then in other countries as it moved ever westward to the new world. There is nothing else that matters, really—the valiant never tastes of death but once; the cowards die many times before their deaths.

Campaign of Tomorrow

IT SEEMS a singular fact that politicians haven't used the scientific sampling method to save wear and tear on their vocal chords. While neither the wear nor the tear had any visible effect on Mr. Roosevelt's voice, Mr. Willkie's battered baritone won't soon be forgotten. It is doubtful if his opponent, who demands less of his throat when making a speech, could have survived any better with an equivalent amount of abuse.

But all this could have been averted. Relatively few of the things said over and over again by the presidential rivals were worth saying, not because they weren't momentous but simply because they left listeners cold. Even audiences ready to applaud for anything were perfunctory about a vast majority of the oratory loosed on them. It was only on rare occasions that something the speaker said produced genuine enthusiasm.

All this could have been found out beforehand by the scientific sampling method. The things that really click could have been boiled down into a few five-minute speeches, and those speeches could have been delivered time after time. That's the way it will be done in the campaign of tomorrow, barring television. There will need to be some really radical revision in that case.

But Not "All Clear"

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL tempers his assertion that Nazi invasion of Great Britain has been blocked, with a warning that danger will continue indefinitely. Like the "All Clear" signals which tell London the bombers have been driven off, there is certainty of another attempt to follow, sometime in the future.

Gradually, as war spreads into southeastern Europe, where the Axis powers probably can be checked short of victory as they were in the attempt to crush Great Britain at home, a new fact looms out of the violence. There can be no peace between the Axis and Britain until one or the other collapses. The war is approaching a stalemate.

The most wishful thinker cannot imagine Great Britain developing sufficient power on land to drive the German army out of its strongly intrenched positions in France, Norway, Denmark and Holland. At its best, British military strength may prove sufficient to harass the Nazi military machine at so many points it will be unable to hold the initiative seized with the march on the low countries last June.

Obviously, Hitler and his Nazis cannot be the source of any kind of appeasement move. Their political careers depend entirely on their ability to maintain their military prestige. They must ride the whirlwind they have loosed on the world to victory or defeat; they cannot dismount in mid-passage without sacrificing their lives to furious reaction. The only way their mad adventure can be stopped short of the rule or ruin destiny they have plotted for Germany is by revolution inside the country.

That was, of course, Great Britain's original promise. The plan was to blockade Germany and, later, Italy into a state of revolution. The plan, modified when it became plain that blockading would have to be backed up by fighting, now seems to be reviving itself, a fact which is destined to have tremendous repercussions on the foreign policy and defense program of the United States.

News Behind the News

War for Africa Expected To Present English Need of Help from U. S.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Next big struggle of the war will be for Africa—the whole of it—and that is where the British will want us to come in.

Now that the campaign lid is off here, discussions are developing among military men on the piecemeal official information picked up about the recent Hitler-Mussolini conferences. Clearly it indicates conquest of the African continent is the basic grand strategy of the dictators' 1940-41 campaign.

Paul Mallon

It has already started. German fifth columnists have been sifting into all British and French colonies there at a rate more rapid than was apparent in Norway and Holland before they were crushed. A report from Kenya colony (British) on the southeast African coast pictures the activities of various political parties there now as "worse than in Berlin."

This ultimate goal is confirmed by open axis dickering with Spain and the effort of Mussolini to clear the Grecian flank for a German invasion of Turkey. First step was the seizure of Dakar.

The idea is sound from the German standpoint. The war has become a struggle for economic existence. With all the raw materials of Africa, the axis will control the economic resources of two continents to fend off exhaustion.

British Know

The British well know what is afoot. In fact our information probably comes through them. But they rather like the new battleground. It offers a possible future opening for a military defeat of Germany where none exists now. Invasion of Europe would be just as difficult for the British now as invasion of England has proved for the Germans. If the Germans, however, string out their military forces through two continents, committing themselves constantly to an ever-widening front, they will thin their army out. Britain, too, will have full freedom of movement in the seas off the African coast. In the end the British might roll right back up to Berlin by any path the Germans could cut to Africa, across the Dardanelles and Gibraltar.

For such a campaign the British would need every ounce of military might they can muster. They must keep large forces at home to meet the threat of invasion which will be kept constantly before them. Up to now they have not been able to use more American help than they have been getting. But they will be able to use it then. Pressure for American participation should be expected to grow accordingly.

France's Position

Don't expect anything from the French merely because 90 per cent of the French people are assumed to favor Britain.

The secret of all French governmental actions heretofore and hereafter is that Hitler has 1,800,000 French prisoners of war in German camps. If any German suffers slightly ruffled hair in France, Herr Hitler has let the French know it will be taken out on the prisoners. The French dare not do anything hereafter except by German bidding.

Hitler has been keeping a distance away from the Vichy government to give it a deceptive appearance of minor independence. Don't let that fool you. Hitler has perfected a system of running every detail of Vichy activity from a distance and without direct communication. He works through the armistice commission which is a continuing body functioning daily.

What he wants vichy to do is communicated by his German commissioners across the table in Paris to the French commissioners who relay it to Petain.

The British lost all chance of even hidden help from France when Petain failed to get the 1,800,000 French hostages released from Hitler's prisons.

Sizing Up the Draftees of Today and 1917.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Taking for granted that you know your selectee of today, this is second of two articles designed to demonstrate how different (or how much the same) he is from his draftee brother of 23 years ago. Here's what the conscriptee of 1917 was thinking about and doing:

James Ten Eyck had just staggered the thought of human enduring by rowing 150 miles up the Hudson from New York to Albany — without rest. Hazel Cunningham put an exclamation point after that by swimming the Golden Gate.

Jack Stinnett

There were bombings in a Chicago theater; in a Milwaukee church (the bomb didn't explode, however, until it had been transferred to the police station where 10 persons were killed); in the governor's mansion in Sacramento, Calif.; in a church in St. Paul; in an express company package in Sea Bright, N. J.; in a railroad car in Windsor, N. D.; and in a petticoat factory in Queens on Long Island.

A fellow named Harold R. Peat caused a sort of "Gone With the Wind" sensation by coming out with a book called "Private Peat." ...Joyce Kilmer published "Main Street and Other Poems" and nobody cared .... James Branch Cabell ignored the war (thereby getting criticized) with "Cream of the Jest."

The big railroad strike was in the making, with 19 Chicago railroads' workers threatening to do something about it unless the pay envelopes were fattened.

Pershing Promoted

Gen. John J. (Black Jack) Pershing was made General by an act of congress...He forbade the soldiers in France to drink anything stronger than light wines and beers... And caught it from both sides...The prohibitionists claiming he had violated the holy dictum of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution (which was still in the process of ratification) by permitting the boys to drink anything stronger than sarsaparilla. ...And the boys grumbled that they couldn't fight on beer and sherry....More than 2,000 saloons closed in New York because of taxes....and the "father of prohibition" Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas, predicted the all-time death of Demon Rum by the spring of 1918.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise urged women's suffrage because it would make the world safe for peace. ...But in Washington scores of suffragettes were sent to the workhouse at Occaquan for picketing the White House....And trouble broke out then because the ladies went on hunger strikes, claimed they were brutally mistreated....And sued for the consideration and privileges of "political prisoners."

Songs Of The Era

If you couldn't sing "K-K-Katy," "There's A Long, Long Trail," "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Tipperary," you couldn't sing....Jesse L. Williams wrote a title-shocking drama called "Why Marry?"....and the bedroom farce era was well under way with "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath."....Sir Arthur Guy Empey's "Over the Top" was selling more copies than the Bible.... Ethel Barrymore was giving Broadway a successful revival of "The Lady of the Camellias" and a couple of gents named Victor Herbert and Jerome Kern had turned out a tuneful bit called "Miss 1917."

There was a big scandal in New York because a little girl, daughter of a family that had come down in the world, testified in the detention home that her mother and "fine ladies" who called on her mother smoked cigarets!

A 14-story building was a skyscraper in anybody's city...And if you followed the automobile advertising, you tried to figure out whether to put a brand new $57.50 winter top on the old flivver or go high-hat and spend your war profits on a Maxwell, Hup, Saxon, Franklin, Velie, Allen, Case, Owen-Magnetic or Peerless.

The War a Year Ago

By The United Press

NOV. 7, 1939

King Leopold of Belgium, and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, made a joint plea for peace in identical notes to Germany, Great Britain and France.

Viscount Halifax broadcast from London that Great Britain was fighting "to maintain the rule of the law and the quality of mercy between man and man." The British leader added that his countrymen were "fighting in defense of freedom."

Field Marshall Goering, in an interview, scoffed at the Allies' hopes to get material from the United States.

The Western Front was quiet.

Set for Emergency

SPARTANBURG, S. C.—A defense attorney advised circuit court that his client had made the 30 gallons of home brew she was charged with possessing "for a birthday party because she didn't have money to buy beer."

"You mean she had all that home brew just for one party?" asked Solicitor Sam R. Watt.

"Well," replied the lawyer, "she didn't know how many relatives would attend."

Voters Break Tradition To Give Roosevelt Mandate for Defense of Peace, Security.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

RARELY does a great opportunity come twice to the same man. But for the second time it has come to Franklin D. Roosevelt. After the election of 1936 it lay within his power to lift all that is enduring in the New Deal above partisanship, factionalism and social conflict, to win the good will of the enlightened opposition, and to inaugurate an era of good feeling like that which began after the election of James Monroe in 1816. Like Monroe he had swept the field against the opposing party; like Monroe he was in a position to win over the opposition which he had defeated. But, unhappily for him, for the nation, and for the world he interpreted his victory as "a mandate" to precipitate a new and more intense internal struggle; he launched the attack on the Supreme Court and produced those dangerous divisions among us which have borne their bitter fruits in this election campaign.

Walter Lippmann

Now once again there comes to him, from the people who alone can create it, the opportunity to give this nation that profound internal peace for which all decent men are longing. Certainly the opposition must respond, and undoubtedly it will. But the initiative and the power to unite the nation or to divide it irreparably are placed by this election squarely, indisputably, upon Franklin D. Roosevelt. The responsibility is his and this is the mandate of the election, the only mandate which can be read into the returns, the only mandate which can justify to his conscience or to the conscience of any who voted for him the acceptance of a third term.

Third Term

Much has been said about the tradition against a third consecutive term. By some it has been argued that the custom must never under any circumstances be broken. By others that it is an unsubstantial myth. Neither view is, I think, correct. Surely the truth is that if the rule must never under any circumstances be broken, the American people would not have left the matter to custom but would at some time in the past century and a half have adopted some one of the innumerable proposals to write the prohibition into the Constitution itself. Yet from the time the question was first debated in the consitutional convention, the nation has persistently refrained from doing this very thing because it has felt that the occasion might arise when it would feel the need to keep the President in office.

By refusing to enact a constitutional prohibition the people have shown that they mean to consider themselves the guardians and the interpreters of the rule. They have decided, not once but many times since the foundation of the republic, that the living generation—in the situation which it faces and in the situation which no previous generation may be able freely to anticipate—must remain free to decide for itself whether it wishes to make an exception to a rule which under all ordinary circumstances is not a mere shibboleth but an essential safeguard against excessive power and its perpetuation. The third term is a question which the people have reserved for themselves as the final arbiters in the specific situation, and whether their judgment is wise or unwise, there can be no doubt that they have never been willing to relinquish their right to make the judgment.

It follows that Mr. Roosevelt will have understood his re-election only if he interprets it as a mandate, not to go on as the leader of a party along lines which divide the people but, to devote himself entirely to the defense of the peace and the security of the nation. For only the defense of the peace and the security of the nation could be a matter of sufficient importance—as it would have been in 1864 if Lincoln had then been at the end of his second term—to justify a departure from the wise and ancient custom.

National Unity

Moreover, it will be only by making the national defense the criterion of all his policies that the President can achieve and maintain that national unity which all good men demand. For it is true, of course, that the nation must unite if it is to defend itself successfully. But it is no less true that it will be able to unite successfully only if the national defense becomes the test of all measures and the guide to all opinion and all action.

It would be vain to suppose that the divisions which have appeared in this election can be overcome solely by expressions of good will. The divisions will have to be healed, and they can be, but only by convincing proof that the President has no other purpose in any policy but to make the nation able to ride out the storm—that in all his acts, in his selection of men, in the choice of advisers, in all measures affecting labor, capital, agriculture, the first and last questions in the minds of his administration will be whether what is proposed is solely in the interest of the national defense. If the President can convince the country by words and acts that this is, in fact, his conception of the mandate he has received, we shall get here the kind of unity which a nation finds only when it is dedicated to the supreme task of defending what it holds most dear.

Then we too perhaps shall be able to leave to those who follow us the conviction that this has been our finest hour—the hour when the nation was as great as its destiny is high. And in this consciousness of greatness there will appear again in our public life, because only the great can be gentle, those qualities which, though now so sadly absent, are yet so necessary to any happiness in the public life of a people: kindness and mercy and a genial spirit which reminds us that we are more foolish than we are wicked, humor and charity and a natural affection which make easier to bear the trouble that all must bear together.

Damon Run

We know a plugger for Willkie who has developed a sort of tennis elbow from nudging people next to him in restaurants when anyone wearing a Roosevelt button happens in. The significance of the nudge under such circumstances is enormous. It is as good as saying, contemptuously, "What do you think of that guy?" Meaning, of course, the guy wearing the button.

The ladies of New York were particul active and belligerent in this campaign. T went around with their bosoms bestrewn Roosevelt or Willkie buttons. The more bo the more buttons. We know a Willkie lady is the envy of her sex because she can we half acre of buttons at once.

PENNANTS added a gay note to Schwinger's hall when the Wednesday Night Dance club held a "football dance" last evening. The dance program included a "football" number and the hosts for the evening, acting as vendors, served the refreshments which were in keeping with the party theme.

On the host and hostess committee were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Halby, chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scandling, Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. John Courtright, Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gickler and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Swink.

MRS. GEORGE McGUIRE, who was Miss Ruth Smart before her marriage, was complimented with a dinner and shower when women employes of the Osgood Co. entertained last evening at Hotel Harding. The table, at which places were marked for 23, held a centerpiece of bronze pompons.

IT WAS voted to purchase reading and bed lamps for the rooms and also a fracture bed for use at City hospital, at a meeting of the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital yesterday at the home of Mrs. George B. Scofield of 409 Bellefontaine avenue. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Charles H. Elliott and Mrs. S. S. Hardy. Luncheon preceded the business session and the afternoon was spent in sewing.

HARRY MILEY'S orchestra of Marion played for the "hard times" party of the Jolly Dance club last evening at Schwinger's hall.

On the host committee were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wertenberger of Bucyrus, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwinger Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mahaffey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greenland and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Harris.

Mrs. Corelin Starner of Willow street entertained the Tranquillity club last evening. Euchre was played, awards going to Mrs. Florene Clark, Mrs. Gladys Saunders, Mrs. Helen Dawson and Mrs. Emma McCluskey. Mrs. McCluskey also won the mystery box award.

Five tables were filled for cards at the meeting yesterday afternoon of the Elks Women's club.

Mrs. Zelma Levi of Buffalo, N. Y. and Mrs. Carroll Davidson were guests.

Awards for high scores were won by Mrs. Ralph Cheney, auction, Mrs. Thomas Andrews, contract, and Mrs. Ed Brewer, euchre. Mrs. V. W. Orth and Mrs. W. T. Owen were hostesses.

Plans were made for a party for husbands of the members in December, at a meeting of the Del-Mar-Va club last evening at the home of Mrs. Gene Hudson on East Center street. Games followed a session of sewing, awards going to Mrs. Richard Plantz, Mrs. Ralph Rider and Miss Helen Bailey. Mrs. Harold Reece was elected secretary-treasurer.

New phases of the program theme, "Contemporary American Art," will be discussed at the Marion Art club meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. F. R. Mann of 244 South Vine street.

Mrs. Floyd Fate and Mrs. E. F. Weiser won first and second contest honors at the Congenial Stitchers club meeting last evening with Mrs. Harry Hogan of Bellefontaine avenue. A guessing award was won by Mrs. Roy Grate.

Mrs. Harold Carroll was discussion leader at a luncheon meeting Tuesday of the Delphian society at Hotel Harding. The topic was "Pillars of the Established and Pioneers of the Untried."

Mrs. Goldie Andrews of North State street entertained the Fun For All club Tuesday evening. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Faye Vestal and Mrs. Mary Ekey. Awards in pinochle were won by Mrs. Lavina Klingle and Mrs. Ekey, and Miss Corrine Seas was consoled.

Mrs. Frank Fairchild was elected president at a meeting of the Arbor Vitae club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. F. Wolfinger of the Hillman-Ford road. Mrs. Earl Thomas was chosen vice president, Mrs. E. E. Glosser, secretary, Mrs. John Doll, treasurer, and Mrs. U. F. Zachman, reporter. A contribution of $5 was made toward purchase of iron lungs for use at the City hospital, and plans were made to fill a basket for a family at Thanksgiving time. Arrangements were made for a Christmas party and exchange at the home of Mrs. U. F. Zachman on St. James street Dec. 6. Mrs. Lydia Davis conducted devotions. Mrs. Julia Young will be assisting hostess for the Christmas party.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Faust of True avenue have as their guest Mrs. Faust's sister, Mrs. John Walker of Nashville, Tenn.

Lima Traveler On Program Given by Club Federation

THE land of Mexico as seen through the eyes of Dr. Simon M. Davidian of Lima, world traveler, minister and musician, is a place of beauty and contrasts, and its people are a friendly and religious race. These and scores of other interesting facts regarding our neighbors to the south were told by Dr. Davidian in his talk at a monthly meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs Tuesday night at Central Christian church.

A musical program preceded the talk. Mrs. Harold K. Mouser played one of her own compositions, "Promenade Nocturne," and "Ballade," by Debussy, and accompanied Dr. Davidian in two vocal numbers, "When Song is Sweet," San Souci, and "Your Song from Paradise," Brookton.

Nov. 14 Meeting Set

Mrs. Harold Jacobs of the Marion Federation of the Child Conservation league announced a panel discussion to be sponsored by that group Nov. 14 at Epworth Methodist church. Taking part will be Dr. Frederick G. Smith, Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., Dr. F. W. Rea and Dr. J. W. Bull. The discussion will be on "Rheumatic Fever in Children" and will be open to the public.

Dr. Davidian and his family spent several weeks in Mexico last summer and it was from his own observations that he presented his picture of the political, educational, religious and economic life of the people. He described Mexico as a country of churches, excelling in beauty many of those in European countries, and praised the work of the government in what has been accomplished along educational lines and transportation improvements. He predicted that if the people can keep up the present pace of advancement for the next 30 years Mexico will be one of the most interesting and beautiful countries in the world.

Socialistic Government

"Mexico is a socialistic government but it is not communistic," he said. Organized labor and organized farmers are back of the government and the country is most anxious to be a friendly neighbor of America, he said. His prediction was that there will be no revolution in Mexico when the new president goes into office in the next few weeks, and he contradicted those who predict that country will allow Germany to use it as a "jumping off" place for further conquests.

Dr. Davidian expressed the hope that along with extending friendship to Canada, the United States will extend the same friendship to Mexico and establish relations as a neighbor and not in the guise of a protector to grab her wealth. "America's people should show to the world a spirit of brotherhood which, he stated, "will usher in a new day and a new world."

Leaving his topic for a moment Dr. Davidian touched on the national election, expressing the opinion that it was beneath the dignity of a nation to have its head seeking election and advocated a six-year term for the presidency.

PICTURE TO BE SHOWN C. OF C. RETAILERS GROUP

The retailers group of the Chamber of Commerce will hold a luncheon meeting at Hotel Marion on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 12 noon, with a March of Time film as the program feature.

"Science in Business" is the title of the sound picture.

The Chamber has also announced that its library has been increased recently by addition of many new city directories for 1940 from communities throughout this part of the country.

Miss Josefita Arias, sister of President Arnulfo Arias of Panama, is shown as she arrived in Manhattan on the liner Santa Elena to take over the post of Panamanian consul general in New York. She is the first woman to hold such a post.

Officers Chosen at Brotherhood Auxiliary Meeting

ELECTION of officers was followed by a program and social hour when Pride of 35, Lodge No. 79, Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen met yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Emma Humes was reelected president and Mrs. Olive Winfield, vice president. Chosen with them were Mrs. Mary Alice O'Brien, secretary, Mrs. Rena Clark, treasurer, Mrs. Marie Wilson, chaplain, Mrs. Carrn Foust, conductress, Mrs. Geraldine Saull, warden, Mrs. Naomi Beckley, inner guard, Mrs. Lucy McMorrow, outer guard. Dr. M. A. Pennington was chosen medical examiner. The officers will be installed at a meeting in December.

Mrs. O'Brien gave a reading and the group sang patriotic songs. Mrs. O'Brien also received the special award.

"Pull Together" Is Slogan After School Election

The election fever still was in the air yesterday at Central Junior High school where, on Tuesday, the student body held an election patterned after the regular election in which their parents were engaged.

The winning candidates and the losing candidates all appeared on a broadcast to the student body.

Marion Price, the winner, told the students: "I would like to personally thank each and every one of you who voted for me in the election of November 5. That would take too long so I am taking this opportunity to thank you and my campaign manager for working so hard for my election. I hope those who didn't win will work just as hard for me as I would have worked for them. Now that the officers have been chosen, whether your candidate was elected or not, we must all pull together and have more fun and enjoyment in the activities and assemblies of Central.

"In years gone by we have had many fine presidents and if we all work together we will make this the best year of all. I also want to thank the teachers for their cooperation in this election."

His defeated opponent, Charles Elliott, spoke as follows:

"By this time you probably know either Willkie or Roosevelt will be our next President. Mr. Willkie, who is undoubtedly the loser, is in the same boat as myself. After a good night's sleep I have quite recovered from my disappointment and I only hope that the man who did not get to become President of the United States recovers as soon as I have. However, the two candidates at Central will have no regrets of mud-slinging campaign remarks like our elders put on. It was all fun and good experience and I enjoyed it. I am glad that the office went to such a capable boy as Marion Price. He can be assured of my support in everything he does for the school. I wish to thank all of those that supported me and I know they, too, will be back of our new president."

Short talks expressing thanks for school support were given by Richard Higdon, new vice president, Geraldine Messenger, new secretary, and Virginia Dietz, new treasurer. Brief congratulatory talks were given of their defeated opponents, Marjorie Volk, Elizabeth Zuspan, Phyllis Lewis and Anne Thomas.

Operated like a post hole digger, a hand tool has been invented to remove plants from the soil with earth packed around their roots for transplanting.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS AT EDISON JUNIOR HIGH

Russell Midlam was elected president of the freshman class at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school Tuesday morning. Four candidates for each office were nominated last week at a meeting presided over by Miss Ethel Garn, freshman sponsor. The election followed a week of campaigning.

Others elected are Frank DeSanto, vice president; Twila Hiecock, secretary; Willard Benson, treasurer.

Dinner Meeting Held by Marion Sorority Chapter

MRS. BURR REED and Miss Molly Johnson were pledged to Ohio Eta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, last evening at a dinner meeting in the presidential suite at Hotel Harding. Miss Mildred Collins read the ritual of jewels and extended a welcome to the pledges. The response was given by Mrs. Reed.

Contributions were made to the Marion Community Foundation, Inc., the Red Cross and Community Forum. Secret sisters were revealed and Mrs. Russell Adams gave a talk on "After A Year In Beta Sigma Phi."

MAJOR OPERATIONS

Ernest Rech of 641 Henry street and Layton H. Wingert of near Bucyrus underwent major operations last night and yesterday afternoon at City hospital. Both were reported in good condition this morning.

75 Take Part In Shrine School of Instruction Here

SEVENTY-FIVE members of [illegible] at Toledo, Mansfield and Marion attended a school of instruction at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon and last evening. Mrs. Florence Houck of Lakewood, district deputy of District No. 2, conducted the school. Officers of Oriental shrine in Toledo conducted the floor work in the afternoon, and a ceremonial was held in the evening. Dinner was at 6 o'clock.

Announcement was made of the observance of All Ohio day at ceremonial at Columbus Saturday. Ohio supreme officers and past supreme officers and members of supreme committees will take part in the work, and Will Laughman of Marion shrine, past deputy supreme watchman of shepherds, will preside as king of the ceremonial. A candidate from Marion will be in the class to be initiated and the drill patrol plans to take part in the exhibition scheduled for 8 o'clock. Marion Shrine will hold a ceremonial next Monday evening.

How to Treat a Child

When Chest Colds Strike

To relieve coughing spells, loosen up phlegm, soothe irritation, ease muscular soreness or tightness—give your child an improved "VapoRub Massage."

With this more thorough treatment, the poultice-and-vapor action of Vicks VapoRub more effectively PENETRATES irritated air passages with soothing medicinal vapors... STIMULATES chest and back like a warming poultice or plaster... STARTS RELIEVING misery right away! Results delight even old friends of VapoRub.

TO GET a "VapoRub Massage" with all its benefits—massage VapoRub for 3 minutes on IMPORTANT RIB-AREA OF BACK as well as throat and chest—spread a thick layer on chest, cover with a warmed cloth. BE SURE to use genuine, time-tested VICKS VAPORUB.

DO YOU KNOW THAT.... DELICIOUS GOOD LUCK MARGARINE IS AS RICH IN FOOD VALUES AS EVEN THE MOST EXPENSIVE SPREAD FOR BREAD?

GOLLY, MARGE — THIS SPREAD TASTES GRAND — HAS THAT REAL, FRESH COUNTRY FLAVOR!
THAT'S BECAUSE IT'S "DATED FOR FRESHNESS" GOOD LUCK, JIM. AND OH, HOW IT CUTS DOWN ON OUR FOOD BILLS!

Join the Thousands of Smart Women Who are Switching to GOOD LUCK Margarine

The Only Spread that is "Dated for Freshness"

Ounce for ounce . . . Jelke's GOOD LUCK is unsurpassed in food values by any spread for bread on the market. Pound for pound . . . even the most expensive spread can give you no more for your money!

Naturally abundant in food-energy—GOOD LUCK is further enriched with precious Vitamin A, contains more than 7500 U.S.P. units per pound. Plus that, GOOD LUCK contains the famous "sunshine" Vitamin D . . . so essential to strong bones and teeth in children and adults alike.

"Dated for Freshness"

And another thing, there's no guessing at freshness when you insist on GOOD LUCK. You're sure—because GOOD LUCK is "Dated for Freshness"—is the only spread in America whose freshness is unconditionally guaranteed!

This guarantee is important. It means that you can rely on the same fresh, supremely delicious flavor in every package of GOOD LUCK you buy. It means that creamy smooth, "Dated for Freshness" GOOD LUCK is one margarine whose fresh flavor is wholly natural . . . no artificial preservatives of any kind!

Use for Cooking, Too

In baking, GOOD LUCK makes a superb shortening. Wonderfully easy to cream . . . it adds that rich, "old-fashioned" flavor to cakes, pie crusts and biscuits. And you'll never know how really good vegetables can taste . . . until you've prepared them with GOOD LUCK!

So get a pound of GOOD LUCK. See for yourself how downright delicious it is. See what "Dated for Freshness" really means . . . in terms of creamy smoothness . . . and a mild, sweet flavor that's always the same!

ment program will be intensified and that there will be uninterrupted help for England. That moral boost is of vast importance to Britain.

The impression prevails in some quarters that England wants us to come into the war. I believe there was a time early in the conflict when a good many Britons did hope for, and work for, that. However, that sentiment would appear to have about disappeared.

SHIFT IN AMERICAN ENVOYS IS INDICATED

President and Secretary Hull Reviews Situation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—Presaging action to reinforce American foreign policies, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull today began re-checking the nation's diplomatic representation in European capitals.

As a result of the war and the consequently altered relationships with belligerent nations, there has been a considerable "turnover" among American ambassadors and ministers in Europe, necessitating a reshuffling soon and probably several changes in important posts.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, whose return to the United States produced reports he intended to resign, conferred with Secretary Hull yesterday but declined to discuss the future except to tell newspapermen he had "no plans."

Kennedy has been mentioned as a possible chairman of the national defense committee, a position not yet filled by President Roosevelt.

BEATS DICKINSON

Michigan's crusading governor, Republican Luren Dickinson, goes down to defeat in the gubernatorial race there, being beaten by Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democratic state highway commissioner.

HUGE BRIDGE BREAKS IN STORM AT TACOMA

Part of Huge Span Falls Into Puget Sound.

By The Associated Press

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7—The Tacoma Narrows bridge broke in half today.

Parts of the huge span went cascading 190 feet into Puget sound.

No one was on the $6,400,000 suspension structure when it fell.

Still on the structure, however, were an automobile and a logging truck.

The huge suspension bridge, with the third longest span in the world, began to crack up shortly after it started to sway sideways in a heavy wind.

A 50-foot section of the roadway fell first.

Then, with its cables twisting wildly, it began to disintegrate.

Last person on the structure was Leonard Coatsworth, a Tacoma News-Tribune reporter, who abandoned his car and crawled 50 yards on his hands and knees to shore while the bridge bed tipped to as much as a 45-degree angle.

Sluggish Kidneys Due to Diet Hard To Correct

Three Trophies To Be Awarded For Best Floats in Armistice Parade

Business Firms To Give Prizes for Monday Night Event; Four Bands To Take Part.

Three cups will be awarded in the Armistice day parade next Monday night in uptown Marion, it was announced following a meeting of the general committee Wednesday night at the Legion Dugout.

A large trophy will be awarded for "the Boy Scout troop reporting the highest percentage of its registered membership in scout uniform under command of an adult leader." The troops will report to Scout Executive Fred P. Strother or his assistant at the Central Junior school grounds not later than 7 p. m.

The best industrial or business float will get a large trophy.

The third trophy will be given to the best uniformed and best appearing Boy Scout troop marching in the parade.

Must Be Won Three Times

Arrangements for the cups, all given by Marion business firms, were made by a committee headed by T. E. Kinnear. The awards will be made with the understanding that possession will be retained until notification by the American Legion that they have been won three times by the same organization.

The trophies will be on display in the windows of the donors' stores.

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young, Municipal Judge Dexter Hazen and Probate Judge Oscar Gest will be the judges.

Carl S. Kay, chairman of the float committee, reported that a number of organizations contacted by the committee have promised floats for the parade.

Four bands already have accepted invitations to march. William B. Sherman, chairman of the band committee, reported. They are the bands of Harding High school, Caledonia High school, La-Rue High school and Buckeye Aerie No. 327, F. O. Eagles.

Committee To Meet

M. E. Baldwin, chairman of the transportation committee, announced plans for his committee to meet soon at the Marion Auto club quarters on South State street. On the committee are James Messenger of Marion Camp No. 32, Spanish American War Veterans, John Monk of Marion Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wallace Daly of Je Nes Ce Pas Pup Tent No. 27, Military Order of Cooties, E. M. Breithaupt of the Marion Navy club, B. Garver representing the C.I.O. and William Bailey representing the A. F. of L.

All disabled war veterans who otherwise could not participate in the parade have been extended an invitation from Marion Voiture 48, 40 et 8, to ride in its boxcar.

After the parade there will be a service at the court house.

The auxiliary to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, will serve its annual Armistice day public dinner at the Legion Dugout from 11 a. m. Monday to 7 p. m. "Open house" will be observed at the Dugout Monday night.

Bowling

Carl Brickley, Thomas A. Edison Junior High school coach, gave his friends of the All Star league a lesson in bowling when the circuit convened Tuesday night at the Marion Recreation Center. He started out with a 178 round, added a 214 game and then blasted out a 235 final that earned him a 627 series. He bowls with Buettin Sales and the pin-busting helped his squad to honor marks of 976 and 2,785.

Terry Provision keglers, Office loop leaders, saw their advantage cut by one game when they dropped two of three to the second-place Merchants Transfer entry. Honors were divided between the two teams, Louis Myers of the Provision crew getting the top individual totals of 214 and 589, while the Transfermen posted tallies of 840 and 2,372.

T. E. BROWNLEE HEAD OF MASONIC GROUP

Chosen Master of Sojourners Lodge; Installation Set.

Theodore E. Brownlee of 410 Durfey drive, a member of the city fire department, was elected worshipful master of Sojourners Lodge No. 653, F. and A. M., at the annual meeting Wednesday night at Masonic temple.

Mr. Brownlee, who succeeds Harry O. Crawbaugh, and his staff of officers will be installed some time in December.

Dr. B. L. Wallace was elected to his fifteenth year as secretary.

ROOSEVELT

his credit with a total of 449 electoral votes, while Willkie mustered 10 states and 82 electoral votes.

The Roosevet victory, however, was not without encouraging aspects for his Republican opposition. The same figures which clarioned his reelection, also proclaimed substantial Republican gains over 1936 when Mr. Roosevelt won 523 electoral votes to the 8 which two lone states yielded to his rival, Alf M. Landon.

In 1936 the popular vote went: Mr. Roosevelt 27,476,673, Landon 16,679,583, but in 1940 Willkie not only slashed fifty per cent off the numerical size of the Roosevelt plurality but piled up a record-breaking mountain of Republican ballots. Although the count was not yet complete, he already had surpassed the previous Republican high of 21,392,190 Herbert Hoover reached in 1928 in his great "prosperity landslide."

Mr. Roosevelt had a multitude of affairs awaiting his attention. Problems of foreign policy, plans for greater assistance to Britain, and defense program details all promised to shove quickly into the background the election, its interests and controversies.

On these major questions the Chief Executive was receiving an increasing number of assurances of cooperation and support from the ranks of his erstwhile political foes. To implement these assurances, a post-election keynote of national unit sounded in every section of the country.

Following upon Wendell L. Willkie's telegram of congratulation to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, Alf M. Landon, Republican 1936 standard bearer, told the country by radio that its job now was to "grin and go back to work."

In Palo Alto, Calif., former President Hoover noted that both Republican candidate Willkie and Democratic Candidate Roosevelt had "pledged to the utmost national preparedness and to keep out of foreign wars."

In New York, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, a Democratic campaigner to the last ditch for the Willkie cause, declared that "every American should line up solidly behind the President in the interest of the future welfare of our country."

Literature Burned

And in Salina, Kas., the flames of a huge bonfire fed symbolically upon all the campaign literature that Boy Scouts could collect.

Along with their promises of support and cooperation, however, the Republicans gave every evidence of functioning vigorously as opposition to the administration on all issues which they may regard an inimical to the country's best interest.

Almost complete returns showed that the strength which the Republicans will command in the new congress, beginning in January, would be greater in the senate and somewhat less in the house than in the present session. With the outcome of one senate race still in doubt, the Republicans thus far had registered a net gain of four seats for a total of 28 as against 66 held by Democrats in that chamber.

In the house the Democrats had a net gain of five seats, with only five contests still undecided. This gave them a total of 263 members, compared with 218 necessary for a majority. The Republicans had elected 162 members and Progressives 3, Independent Democrats 1 and American Labor 1.

Meanwhile, indications increased that complete official returns on 1940's presidential election, counting in some million ballots usually cast for minor party candidates, would be around 49,000,000, the greatest in history. The record meant that about 4,000,000 new voters had been added to the 1936 total.

GARDEN CLINIC

Q. Could you give me directions for building a small inexpensive hothouse? J. McC., Dayton.

A. The directions for building a small greenhouse are rather involved, so I suggest you write to the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. for Farmers' Bulletin 1318, Greenhouse Construction and Heating.

Q. I am enclosing two lily leaves and would appreciate knowing the names of them. I had these lilies planted in a semi-shady spot for two years but they are not doing so well, therefore I would like to know if they can be transplanted and when. I was told by someone that I should not transplant them this year because I have only had them planted for two years. I would also appreciate any information you could give me regarding peonies. I would like to buy a climbing rose, ever-blooming, and would appreciate your comment as to whether they are worth while. C. S., Cincinnati.

A. Since there are more than 30 different kinds of lilies in cultivation, many with very similar foliage, it is impossible to identify a lily, with but one or two exceptions, from a single leaf. It is even difficult to distinguish between many of them from a whole stem. If you will give me a description of the bloom I will be glad to try to identify it.

Normally, lilies should be left alone as long as they are growing well without transplanting, but any plant that is not thriving can and often should be transplanted to another spot in an attempt to find a more favorable location for it. Lilies can be transplanted anytime between now and when the ground freezes. I recommend that it be done now.

For information on peonies may I suggest you ask your county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin on perennial flowers. It is free.

The climbing roses are well worth while. The so-called everblooming ones will give you some bloom off and on throughout the season, although you naturally can not expect a full mass of bloom from June until October. May I suggest in regard to these that you ask your county agent for a copy of our bulletin on garden roses.

Q—I want to ask you about my peonies. All the flowers were not picked off and some seed pods have formed. Can new plants be started from these?

A—Peonies can be grown from seed but they will take [illegible] few years before they will come into bloom and then usually be inferior to the parent. However, you can have a lot of pleasure from growing your own in this way.

5 Marion Troopers at Camp Shelby Transferred from Co. D to New Unit

...e men who left Marion with ... 166th Infantry, have agreed ... ister into Service Co. of ... to ense an over-strength ... in the Marion unit ac... to word received from ... H. L. Taylor, commanding ... Camp Shelby near Hat... Miss.

They are Privates Donald Justice, Elden H. Oller, Cecil E. Wilson, Arthur J. Wilson and Windley Wilson. Their transfer, effective Nov. 1, will not part them from their friends, since the Service Co. street is near Co. D's street in camp and they will be with their friends when not on duty. Until the transfer was made Co. D was one of the largest companies in camp, Captain Taylor said.

Sgt. Lawrence A. Edgington has been appointed athletic director of Co. D and Sgt. Gerald H. Peterson has been appointed company correspondent. Their new duties will be carried on with regular drill work.

A group of men of the company spent last Sunday in New Orleans. Some of the men go to Gulfport, Miss., about 60 miles from the camp, the captain reported. When permanent quarters are established at the camp, recreation centers will be provided for the men.

Marion wives and mothers who have been worrying over the food at Camp Shelby need not worry longer, according to the Sunday menu published in a news report from Hattiesburg.

For breakfast the men had oranges, oatmeal, milk, boiled eggs, fried potatoes, bread, butter and coffee. On the menu for dinner were roast beef, potatoes, gravey, kidney beans, bread, butter, fresh apples, coffee, milk, lettuce and tomatoes. For supper there were cold cuts, cheese, potatoes, tomatoes, peaches, bread, butter, coffee and milk.

Rations for the Sunday meal for a mess hall catering to 100 men included 100 oranges, five 20-ounce packages of rolled oats, 20 cans of evaporated milk, 200 eggs, 90 pounds of potatoes, 60 pounds of bread, 12 pounds of butter, 15 pounds of coffee, 50 pounds of beef, four pounds of lard, two pounds of flour, 30 pounds of kidney beans, 100 apples, 10 pounds of cheese, 15 pounds of bologna, four cans of tomatoes, 20 pounds of sugar, 12 heads of lettuce and 15 pounds of tomatoes.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Disaster Committee Is Important Branch of Red Cross Organization

Herewith is one of a series of articles covering activities of the Red Cross which will conduct a campaign for $8,125 in its annual roll call Nov. 12-18.

The disaster committee of the Marion County Red Cross chapter is the channel through which it will be made possible for Marion county residents to contribute directly to the appeal for European relief and for European relief in general.

In addition to this service the committee of which Homer D. Lee is chairman, is organized to meet the event of any disaster which may occur in Marion city or county.

Tornadoes, floods, fires and other major catastrophes during the last year took the American Red Cross to the scene of 102 disasters throughout the United States where more than 100,000 persons were given shelter, food, medical attention and rehabilitation assistance.

The national fund through which this program is made possible is raised from the 50 cents of each Red Cross membership throughout the country.

Red Cross rehabilitation assistance includes the rebuilding and repair of damaged dwellings, replacing essential household goods and clothing destroyed by the disaster.

In addition to the need for preparing for disaster relief in the year to come, the American Red Cross is taking an active part in the national defense program of the country, according to J. B. Ellis, chairman of the Marion county chapter. Red Cross field directors in military posts are having their busiest year since the days of the first World war.

At the request of the surgeon-general of the army, designated chapters are now engaged in preliminary studies for the establishment of a proposed "blood bank" which could furnish blood plasma to the military in large quanities in the event of emergency, according to Mr. Ellis. Other Red Cross services are being geared as efficiently as possible into the defense program.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES ENTERTAINED AT WALDO

Special to The Star

WALDO—The Sunday school classes taught by Miss Mildred Fisher and Miss Betty Kraus held a masquerade party Friday at the home of Patricia and Natalia Graham. Charlote Trefz and Mary Shirk were guests.

Games and Halloween contests furnished entertainment. A lunch was served by the mother of the hostesses, Mrs. Clifford Graham.

A group of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards Friday to celebrate the birthday anniversaries of Mr. Edwards and grandson Richard Reece. Progressive euchre was played and a potluck lunch was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Kohbarger and son William, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Layman, Mrs. Faye Green, Mrs. Carrie Hindman and Miles Murphy of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kraus and son Tommy and Mrs. James Schuster and daughter Alice Faye.

SOCIAL MEETING SET BY TRAINMEN BROTHERHOOD

Five applications were balloted on and two applications were received at a meeting of Buckeye Lodge, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Tuesday night. Harry Zeig, William Belser and E. L. Trott make up a committee to arrange for a social meeting in the near future. It was announced that the Marion yard trainmen voted against any change in the number of working hours per month, and that it was expected more men would be given employment in the yards. Approximately 30 men have been added to the Kent division roster of the Erie railroad.

SERVICE AT PROSPECT PLANNED BY GUILD

A program for the guild vesper service Dec. 1 at the Baptist church in Prospect was outlined at a meeting of the council of the Marion Association of World Wide guilds Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. William Griffith near Radnor. Mrs. W. C. Haldeman of Marion, president, was in charge The meeting, which will be the national worship service of the guild, was outlined by Mrs. Charles Kirby of Prospect, associational secretary.

Attending from Marion were Mrs. Haldeman, Miss Geneva Albert and Mrs. Ralph E. Epley of Trinity church, and Misses Maxine Rowe and Emma Osterholt of Fite Memorial church.

Light is projected into difficult to reach places about machinery and radio sets with a new flashlight that sends its beam through a curved plastic rod.

MARION COUNTY NATIVE KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Son of Morrow Co. Woman Dies in Auto-Train Mishap.

Cloyd Stearns, 46, of Rittman, a native of Marion county and the son of Mrs. Rose Stearns of near Williamsport in Morrow county, was killed instantly in a railroad accident early Sunday morning in Wadsworth, according to word received by Marion relatives. Funeral and burial were conducted yesterday at Rittman.

Mr. Stearns was driving across a railroad crossing when his car was struck by a westbound Erie railroad freight train, according to Marion railroad officials. It is believed he attempted to get out of the car and was struck by the train. The accident occurred at 3 a. m.

A draftsman by trade, Mr. Stearns was born in Marion county. His father was the late Alfred Stearns. Mr. Stearns lived in Marion county until about 20 years ago.

The widow and several cousins survive, together with a twin brother, Clyde, of Morrow county, a brother Ray of Mt. Gilead and a sister in Los Angeles. Several cousins live in Marion and and Morrow counties.

FOR Children's SNIFFLES

SPARE your child much of the misery of sniffling, sneezing, and stuffery nostrils due to colds by inserting Mentholatum in his nostrils.

This gentle ointment soothes and protects irritated mucous membrane, reduces swelling, and thus opens breathing passages wider. It soon checks sneezing and sniffling.

Also rub Mentholatum on the child's chest, back, and neck. This will improve local blood circulation and help relieve cold discomforts more effectively.

Mentholatum helps in so many ways that you should always remember this: For Discomforts of Colds—Mentholatum. Link them together in your mind.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN VOTE COUNT HERE

Some Totals Revised by Election Board Figures.

Unofficial totals on Tuesday's election compiled by the board of elections differ substantially only in few instances with those published in The Star Wednesday, a checkup showed today. No difference was sufficient to change the result of any contest.

In the Smith-Petri totals for Eighth district congress, Smith's total for Marion county is 10,316 instead of 10,352. Petri's county total was 11,429.

W. Paul Cass received 9,925 votes for commissioner instead of 9,998.

Walter Johnson, running for engineer, received 12,401 votes instead of 12,501, the difference coming in precinct 2-E.

Judge Hector S. Young, elected common pleas judge, received 10,726 votes instead of 10,626, the difference coming in 2-A. Paul D. Smith, his opponent, received 9,433 instead of 9,235, the difference coming chiefly in errors in addition.

In the probate judge race, Oscar Gast received 11,171 votes instead of 10,944, addition errors causing the difference. Paul Jones, his opponent received 9,237.

There were several other minor changes.

Election workers are not engaged in checking for official totals and it is understood this will bring additional changes, some substantial. So far they have come across very few disputed ballots.

The county election board will meet at 7 o'clock tomorrow night to consider the disputed ballots. These were sealed in envelopes by the precinct workers at the time of balloting and will be opened tomorrow night.

The payroll for the 342 precinct judges and clerks in Tuesday's election is now at the treasurer's office. Workers may call for their money at any time. The total is $2,850.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. McInnes of 1240 Delaware avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., are parents of a son born yesterday at Children's hospital in Buffalo. Mrs. McInnes, the former Miss Blanche Clunk, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clunk of the Rayl-Uncapher road. Mr. McInnes, former Erie railroad trainmaster here, is now the Erie superintendent in Buffalo.

TRIO ARRESTED HERE ON BUCYRUS CHARGE

Accused of Using Cheap Watches in Loan 'Racket.'

Three men were arrested by city police and state patrolmen here yesterday afternoon and were lured over to Bucyrus police for investigation in connection with a "racket" the men allegedly were operating at Bucyrus yesterday.

Police Chief Arthur Stuckert of Bucyrus said they obtained "loans" of $15 from each of two Bucyrus business men and gave $5 watches for security. The three riding in a new large automobile, told the Bucyrus men they needed cash to pay a traffic fine and would return the money and redeem their watches when they reached their home in California, Chief Stuckert was told. He said the victims later discovered the watches were virtually worthless and reported the incidint to police.

Learning that the men had just left Bucyrus and were southbound, the Bucyrus police broadcast details of the incident over the police radio set-up and Police Chief Marks, Patrolmen Jack Underhill and Marion Tatham and State Patrolman David Weissert took the men into custody at the north edge of Marion.

Chief Stuckert said fraud charges will be filed against the trio at Bucyrus late today. They are listed at the police station here as Larry Weisman, 27, of Los Angeles, Calif., Solly Gordon, 32, of Portland, Ore., and Albert L. Johnson, 36, of Akron. Police here quoted the men as saying they "follow races" and were enroute from Akron to California for the winter racing season.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, O., Nov. 7—Robert A. Brown, 65, father of Karl Brown of Marion and a retired employe of the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co., died yesterday at his home in Mt. Gilead after a five-year illness. Mr. Brown, a native of Knox county, came to Morrow county when he was a young man. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Lucy Brown, and four children, Karl of Marion, Richard at home, Miss Alice June Brown of Mansfield and Mrs. Elga Lancaster of Mt. Gilead. The funeral will be conducted Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the Craven funeral home. Burial will be made in Forest Glen Memorial park north of Marion.

CALEDONIA MAN NAMED HEAD OF MUSIC GROUP

Robert Downs Elected by County Supervisors.

Robert Downs of Caledonia was County School Music Supervisors association at a meeting last night at the county school offices on West Center street. Mr. Downs, who will serve during the next year, succeeds Mrs. Opal Durnell of Columbus.

Plans were made for the ninth annual instrumental festival to be given by students of the Marion county rural schools in March and for a vocal festival to be held in January or February.

Arrangements were made to invite Prof. Eugene Weigel of the music department of Ohio State university to serve as conductor for the programs.

FRANCIS J. LOVERICH OF BUCYRUS TAKEN BY DEATH

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 7—Francis J. Loverich, 61-year-old machinist, died at his home here at noon Wednesday of a heart ailment after an illness of two months. Born in Carey, Sept. 25, 1879 he moved here 25 years ago from Upper Sandusky. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus lodge and of Holy Trinity Catholic church. His widow, Mrs. Josephine Gantner Loverich, three sons, Harold of Brooklyn, N. Y., Claire of Bucyrus and Donald at home, and a brother of Upper Sandusky and a sister of Marion, survive. Services will be held Saturday at 8:30 a. m. at the Holy Trinity church and burial will be made in St. Peter's cemetery at Upper Sandusky.

Paint that resembles concrete and that is applied with a roofing or whitewash brush has been invented to resurface wooden floors or worn concrete.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SCHAFFNER'S

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

The Attack Comes. And the Leslie Menace Ends—Again the Graham Household Settles Down to Serenity.

FOR minutes that seemed an eternity, after the blow that so patently had knocked Avis Arlen unconscious, there hung over the farmhouse a silence that not even the sound of a deep breath disturbed.

Her scream had been so quickly silenced that evidently none of the women or children on the first floor had heard it, while the gangsters who we knew must be crowding the entrance of the secret attic stairway were waiting action until they were sure that nobody had been awakened.

Then down the stairs the gangsters came silently, while we, shivering behind our doorway, watched them, and we heard Leslie's voice in muted tones:

"Remember, get the woman, Veritzen, her husband, and the old man. We'll make him tell where the emeralds are — and a few other things before we rub him out. We'll take the queen, too, no, she's only an ex—don't bother with her. And shoot anybody, man woman or child, that gets in your way. Say! Doesn't this dame make a good shield?"

He was coming down the stairs now, and though we could not see his eyes, there was insanity in every word, every gesture. He presented a most macabre picture, with the senseless, slight figure of Avis Arlen slung over his shoulder in such fashion that she shielded his chest. In one hand he held a revolver, in the other a queer-looking sphere at the sight of which Lillian caught my arm.

"What in—!" she breathed, brokenly.

Then I heard my father's steady voice, speaking from some hiding place near the stairway.

"You are surrounded and outnumbered, Leslie. The men hidden here, and the men in the attic behind you, are more than enough to deal with your entire gang. We have known of your secret entrance for weeks, and prepared ourselves accordingly. If you want to avoid needless bloodshed, surrender now, and tell your men to do the same thing!"

As my father finished speaking, I saw Leslie raise his revolver and bring it in front of his face with a queer gesture almost as if he were going to fire in the air. Then he callously dropped Avis Arlen from his shoulder as if she were a bundle of old clothes. I heard her body strike the step and shuddered, but could not take my eyes from Leslie's maddened face.

Leslie's Challenge

The men with him had stopped still at the sound of my father's voice, and I think Leslie shared my conviction that they were ready to surrender. They had not his insane desire for revenge spurring them on, they were simply thugs hired to rob and murder.

"All right, old timer," he answered. "Those other babies can do as they wish. I'm on my way to the other side myself, but I'm going to take somebody with me first."

He raised his revolver, and lifted the other hand with a spherical object in it.

"Come on out, you cowards," he said. "And as for you rats"—he addressed his own men — "you aren't worth shooting, you white-livered skunks!"

"Go, men!" my father said, "but watch him!"

As Lillian and I expected, the first men to bound from their dark hiding places were Dicky, Harry and Noel. But the guards were only a split second behind them, and disarmed Leslie's men with no trouble whatever.

"You're the somebody I want, Noel," Leslie said, laughing maniacally. "Glad to meet you again."

Dicky's Heroism

He discharged his revolver directly at Noel, but his arm was shaking—from rage, I imagined—and he missed his target. With an oath he tossed the revolver to the floor, and threw the hand grenade directly at the man he had so sorely injured, and whom he hated so vindictively.

Before even an involuntary scream could come from my lips, Dicky, beside Noel, fairly leaped into the air and caught the grenade lightly between his palms, just as Harry Underwood and a guard bore Leslie to the ground.

"Gangway!" Dicky said and gently lowered the missile into one of the tubs of water which my father's forethought had provided against the possible setting fire to the house. Then he turned back with an imperturbable face which became alive and agitated as his eyes met mine.

For when Leslie had hurled that hand grenade at Noel, and Dicky had caught it, all self-control left Mary and me. We both made a dash for the open corridor, and while Mary fairly hurled herself toward Noel, and with her arms around his neck, sobbed out her terror and her relief, I moved toward my husband more slowly, fearing that he would repulse me, yet unable to keep from his side in this moment of unutterable relief that his bizarre act of heroism had not blotted out his life.

"Dicky, won't you forgive me?" I pleaded as I reached his side.

For a second his eyes were icy. Then they softened, although they were still shadowed from the wound I had given him. But he put his arms about me and drew me close as he whispered: "Listen!"

For Jack Leslie, raised on one elbow from the floor where his captors had hurled him, was addressing Noel and Mary venomously.

A Vicious Charge

"The tried and true sweethearts!" he snarled. "And you win, though, on second thought, perhaps, my beauties, you lose, for you'll have something to remember, even if I'm not here, I shan't be here to know. When the old bird crowed, I knew the game was up, and I passed in my checks right then and there, on one of the tickets I've always carried with me. It isn't going to be a pretty death, or an easy one, but I didn't want the quickest way, for I wanted to take you with me. However, it won't be but a few minutes at best. And you'll never know—and always wonder—just how much of what I'm going to spill is true. We have our own memories, eh? Mary, my darling. Nothing can rob me of—eh!—!"

Harry Underwood lifted his hand as Noel dashed furiously toward Leslie.

"He's a dying man," he said, as Leslie's body twisted in a horrible paroxysm.

Noel's Answer

Noel stopped short, and then swept Mary from Lillian's arms. Lillian had caught her as she was slipping to the floor under the awful impact of Leslie's vicious words.

"Dying or not," Noel shouted, "here's your answer, Jack. Take this with you to hell. There will never be any doubt of my wife's truth in my soul."

He bent to Mary, and pressed a long kiss upon her lips, and then Philip Veritzen spoke.

"Bring her in here, my boy, and let me help you care for her," he said, and his voice was infinitely tender and loving.

Noel started violently. Then with his arm encircling his wife, he went slowly to his father, who drew them both inside the room, and shut the door. With passionate thankfulness, I realized that at last Philip Veritzen's prejudices had vanished, and that the storm-tossed craft of Noel and Mary was safely in harbor.

What was in store for my own marital ship I did not know. But there was no time to think of anything in the next minute or two except the awful paroxysms of dying Jack Leslie. Mercifully, it was but a short time before the spasms ceased, and his lifeless form lay stretched upon the floor.

"God blasted the lie upon his lips," Lillian whispered when the end came. She was bending over Avis Arlen with me, trying to revive her. Our husbands were close behind us, lending what aid they could, while my father engineered the exodus, under strong guard, of the thoroughly cowed gangsters and the removal of Leslie's body.

"No use bringing her to until that rat's body is gone," Harry said. "Poor little fool, she probably has had her lesson. No use rubbing it in with horror."

A Penitent Girl

Fortunately Leslie's blow had not injured Avis seriously, and under Catherine's care, she came back to consciousness a thoroughly frightened and penitent girl.

It was daylight before the house settled down to quiet, and my father gave us a message that was like a draught of ice water to a fever patient.

"Go to bed and sleep soundly," he told us. "That's what I'm going to do. There's no more need of guards around the farmhouse. We're back to prosaic living again, thank God!"

But I could not obey his injunction. Sleep was far from my eyes, and I went out to the front veranda to watch the dawn. It was there that Dicky found me—I had secretly hoped he would—and put his arms tightly around me.

"You asked me to forgive you," he said thickly, "when it is I who should beg your mercy on my knees: If you only had let me tell you that sordid story when I wished, perhaps—"

Sweethearts Together

I put up my hand and closed his lips tightly.

"Let us never speak of it again," I said. "I know that whatever you did was the result of an evil trick upon the part of those gangsters. Edith has said enough to let me know—although I did not need her telling—I know without her word—that you were innocent as that poor girl was innocent, and that you have been true to me. And after that first cruel moment, when I seemed frozen and could not move, I was wild to tell you of my love and faith. I called to you, but you did not hear me."

"But we're together now," he said softly as the first rays of the rising sun touched us.

"Oh! look! sweetheart, the sun!" I exclaimed. "It is a precious augury for us."

The dawning light fell upon our faces in tender promise as my husband drew me closer.

"My own girl!" he said huskily, and pressed his lips down on mine.

The Pleasant Way to Correct Constipation

Why let yourself in for all the discomfort of constipation—and then have to take an emergency medicine—if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble?

If your difficulty, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted cereal—a natural food, not a medicine—has just the "bulk" you need. If you eat it every day, it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew!

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Our Army's Health

The Government is under a far greater obligation to safeguard the health of a conscript army which is gathered in peacetime than it would be if one were being assembled for an emergency.

From what I know of the methods that are being used, the health of the conscript soldier will be assessed very critically. No one should be allowed to be conscripted whose health is likely to break down in service if it is possible to determine such a possibility in advance.

As a matter of fact, the careful examination of the draft troops will be a great advantage to the population at large for an average cross-section of the population will have, for the first time, a thorough medical examination.

The five great problems which present themselves to any army medical board are: (1) tuberculosis, (2) heart disease, (3) phrychological states, (4) the teeth, and (5) feet and posture.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. H. S., Detroit, Mich.—"What causes soreness of the ball of the feet and stiff knees?"

Answer—Sounds like weak foot arches. Often the pain is worse in the knee in these cases, due to strain on the ligaments.

W. G., Flint, Mich.—"I would like to know if drinking beer puts on weight. My husband ought to lose twenty pounds. He is careful of what he eats but drinks six bottles of beer a day."

Answer—Certainly. A bottle of beer contains about 150 calories. Any alcoholic beverage will be used for energy and thus spare the food for fat formation.

J. W. S.—"From the standpoint of Nature's healing power, which is the better season for a major operation—spring or fall?"

Answer—I do not believe any study has been made of this, but from general observation I should say no difference. Nature's beneficence in healing is continuous and evenly distributed.

D. H. J.—"Which is more healing as a douche in the nose, boric acid or salt solution?"

Answer—Both dissolve mucus and are cleansing, but boric acid is more so and also has an antiseptic action.

Mrs. K.—"Does colitis mean a break in the membrane?"

Answer—Not necessarily. Most cases of colitis belong to the class of inflammations known as productive, in which the thickness of the mucus membrane is increased. There are cases of ulcerative colitis where the membrane is broken, however.

J. W. H., Lincoln, Nebr.—"Is there ay way to build up the secretion of hydrochloric acid in the stomach?"

Answer—No way to stimulate the glands to secretion. The hydrochloric acid can be replaced by taking hydrochloric acid by mouth.

Triple layer inner tubes for automobile tires have been developed in an army laboratory at Akron that seal punctures made by rifle bullets without loss of air.

Aging Jack Dempsey Still Fans' Hero

Mauler, Idolized Even Now, Comments on Maxie Baer and Today's Scene.

By ED KIELY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK—It was late in the evening when we sauntered into a big Broadway restaurant and spied Jack Dempsey sitting at a corner table obligingly signing his autograph on innumerable knick-knacks for besieging patrons.

It was an amazing sight that. The old Manassa Mauler, his active fighting days over these many years, still had a bigger following than all the modern battlers. No other athlete, with the possible exception of Babe Ruth, still is idolized so much by fans.

We walked over to his table and he stopped his pen wagging long enough to stand up and shake hands.

"Sit down," the former heavyweight champion said, pointing to a vacant chair across from him. "I'll be with you in a minute." Then he went back to signing his name.

"Only take a minute of your time," we said, "Want to ask you what you thought of the Baer-Comiskey fight." Dempsey refereed that affair in which Max Baer, the California clown, became serious long enough to batter Pat Comiskey, a youthful and inexperienced heavyweight into a state of helplessness in the first round.

"I thought," Dempsey began, "that it was a pretty good fight. But it was the old story of a naive youngster trying to bite off a bigger chunk than he could chew. Baer was too good in there that night. If he had been hitting as sharp and as hard against Joe Louis Baer might have won back the title."

At this point some stubby and bald geezer pushed his way through the cordon of autograph seekers surrounding the table and slapped Dempsey on the shoulder.

"I met you in California 10 years ago, Jack," the stubby gent said proudly. "You signed this card then," he went on, tossing a well-worn identification card on the table. "Now will you sign this new one" Dempsey obliged and the obese little guy went away beaming.

"What effect will the beating have on Comiskey?" we asked, renewing the interview.

"That's hard to tell," Dempsey answered. "It might be the best thing in the world for him and again it might mean the end of his career. If he is smart he will have learned a lesson. Only future fights will answer that.

"So many young fighters, however, haven't the heart or the brains. They take one good punching and then they give up. Comiskey is still young though and likely to come back quickly.

"Comiskey opened up pretty well, giving Baer a few good lefts. But when Baer landed a right flush on the chin and a couple of good socks to the stomach, Pat become befuddled. Then Baer landed a terrific left and that's when I stopped the fight."

"How do you think Baer will do if he fights Louis again " was the next question.

"That's another story," Dempsey declared as a group of five or six young girls came up wanting Dempsey's autograph.

"Will Max Baer be here tonight?" one girl asked.

We got up. "So long Jack," we said. 'Catch you some other time. Thanks a lot."

OKLAHOMA BOY TOPS U.S. GROUND GAINERS

Jim Reynolds Leads Harmon with 852 Yards.

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Nov. 7—Sophomore Jimmy Reynolds of Oklahoma A. & M., is right back where he was four weeks ago—in first place among the nation's gridiron ground gaining leaders.

Figures released by the American Football Statistical Bureau today show that Reynolds turned full speed ahead to rise again to first in total offense—gains rushing and passing. His season total to 852 yards made him the leading rookie back of the year.

Statistically, he displaced Michigan's Tom Harmon, leader the previous two weks, both in total offense and as a "workhouse." Harmon was idle last Saturday but still ranks second with 833 yards.

Reynolds, tenth among the rushers, has packed the ball 147 times and thrown 58 passes for 203 total plays, comparing with the 1939 high at this point of 177 offensive plays by Ernie Lain of Rice.

Rushing leader of the week is Al Ghesquiere of Detroit who has carried the ball 87 times for 617 yards. Dave Allerdice of Princeton still leads the passers with 51 completions. Owen Price of Texas Mines again heads the punters with a 48.15 yard average 26 punts. Jack Jenninge of Oklahoma retains pass-snatching honors with 10 for 252 yards.

The leaders:

Total Offense—After Reynolds and Harmon come Johnny Knolla of Creighton, 832, and Hal McCullough, of Cornell, 604.

Rushing Offense—Ghesquiere, Detroit, 617; Tony Gallovich, Wake Forest, third last week, 585; Harmon, Michigan, first last week, 580.

Pass Offense—Allerdice leads on the basis of unofficial figures with 51 completions in 103 attempts. Then comes Jack Jacobs, Oklahoma, 41 to 79; Bill Sewell, Washington State, 39 of 80, with figures missing on his brief appearance against Idaho last week.

Punting—After Price comes Jacobs of Oklahoma, who booted nine punts for a 52.30 average against Nebraska last week, most of them quick kicks, bringing his season average for 26 punts to 47.85; Glenn Dobbs, Tulsa, first last week, is third at 45.01.

Pass Receiving—After Jennings comes Humbert, Richmond, 17 enught for 265 yards; Phil Roach, Texas Christian, 16 for 134; Steve Lach, Duke, 15 for 220, and Snuffy Smith, U. C. L. A., 14 for 228.

STATE CHARGES DENIED BY CORNELL DIRECTOR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7—The controversy between Ohio State and Cornell universities over asserted coaching from the sidelines gained fresh momentum today via a letter from James Lynah, Cornell athletic director, to L. W. St. John, head of the Ohio State athletic department.

Lynah denied charges by St. John that the Cornell football team was directed from the bench by Coach Carl Snavely in beating Ohio State at Ithaca Oct. 19, and took exceptions to the publication of the accusation "before your complaint reached those concerned."

Lynah wrote letters to St. John and Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football association, saying, "I am withholding release of these letters until Thursday morning in order to have them reach you before you read their contents in the press."

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—Cornell, at 1-10, will be the year's shortest-priced favorite against Yale Saturday...Just the same, the boys from Syracuse (who played both) say Georgetown would beat Cornell. And how's that for leaping on a bandwagon?...Only scar Joe Louis carries around was received when his brother crowned him with a hoe during an argument in an Alabama cotton patch...Mrs. Leo Durocher plenty worried because she hasn't heard from "The Lip" since he went on the first hunting trip of his life in Utah two weeks ago.

MUSKINGUM TEAM TO STOP IN MARION FRIDAY

To Stay Overnight On Way To Battle Heidelberg.

Muskingum's football team, scheduled to play Heidelberg at Tiffin, Saturday afternoon, will spend Friday night in Marion, according to a news report from the school's publicity bureau. The team will leave New Concord Friday afternoon and stay over night at Hotel Harding.

Heidelberg currently is leading the Ohio Conference parade, and Muskingum is last year's champion, indicating that Saturday's game may go a long way in deciding the ultimate conference winner. Heidelberg's five-game winning streak was snapped, 13-7, last week when unbeaten Bethany, W. Va., marred the Student Princes' homecoming celebration.

Muskingum has a record of five victories and one defeat. The lone loss was administered by Wooster two weeks ago.

Alumni Gridders Invited To Sit on Sidelines.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Nov. 7—Homecoming night will be observed by Bucyrus High school alumni at the Ashland-Bucyrus grid tilt on Lane street field here Friday night.

All former Bucyrus High school football players have been invited to attend and sit on the side lines with this year's team, Manager James Barrett announced today.

Football fans are expecting one of the largest crowds of the season Friday night when the Redmen for the first time in 15 years have a chance to tie and a remote chance to win the N.C.O. title.

The team will be crippled by the loss of two backs, Rinker and Milan and an end, Teets, due to injuries.

Junior All-Stars Ready To Battle Reserves Tonight

A picked team of junior high gridders will step out in faster competition tonight when they tackle the Marion Harding reserves in a game at 7 p. m. It was arranged as a pre-view of the talent available for next year's varsity squad and to give the prospective candidates the opportunity to play under the floodlights.

Coach Williams, who made the arrangements, announced today that the regular admission price for junior high contests, 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for school pupils, will be in effect. He also reported that his first string club is ready for Saturday's important league encounter at Mt. Vernon. The game starts at 2:30.

Since it has been scheduled as an afternoon game the Presidents will not work out under the lights this week. It is the only contest on the nine-game schedule which has been booked as a daytime encounter.

HEPBURN GROUP MEETS
Special to The Star

HEPBURN—The Women's Society of Christian Service of the M. E. church met Thursday with Mrs. Jennie Drumm. Ten members and two guests, Mrs. Rachael Virden of Marion and Mrs. John Dunson attended. Business was in charge of Mrs. Henry Betchiol. The group studied from Joshua. Plans were made for serving dinner at the Farmers' "Co-op" sale soon.

DEATHS ON GRIDIRON CONTINUE DECLINE

Eight Fatalities During First Half of Season.

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 7—A gridiron vital statistics expert reported today that deaths from football were on the decline for the fourth year in a row.

Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, record keeper for the American Football Coaches' and National Collegiate Athletic associations, said that only eight deaths could be blamed on the game for the first half of this season.

The figure has shown a downward trend since 1937, said Eastwood, an associate professor of men's physical education at Purdue university.

Five of the 1940 fatalities were ascribed directly to football and three—two from heart trouble and one from an infection—indirectly.

Directly attributed deaths numbered two less than for the same part of 1939. The decline was in the high school classification, where two deaths occurred against four last year.

Only one fatality blamed directly on football was in college competition—that of Jack Tandy, 21, of San Francisco State college, who died Oct. 27 of cerebral hemorrhage.

Another such death occurred in an athletic club game of touch-football—ordinarily regarded as less hazardous than the regulation game.

Careful Carl Snavely—The Man Behind Cornell's Grid Machine

(Editor's Note: Unbeaten in 17 games, Cornell today is ranked as one of the best (if not the best) football elevens in the country. The "Big Red" is coached by Carl Snavely. Here follows a personality-profile on him which reveals, among other things, the meticulous attention he gives to the team.)

* * *

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7—Genius has been defined as the infinite capacity for taking pains. If that's it, then Carl Snavely's got it, and because of it his Cornell football teams are winning games.

Like Bernie Bierman at Minnesota, Lou Little at Columbia and Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford, Snavely is a precisionist. He is as close-mouthed as Bierman, as much a hermit as Shaughnessy, and as hard a driver as Little.

It is chiefly because of his meticulous attention to the most minute details that this is a great Cornell team — better than Gil Dobie's right after the war (on the say-so of men who played for Dobie) and with far more lift and drive than Snavely's 1938 team that put Brud Holland on the All-America.

This team has been a surprise

to Cornellians and possibly even to the coach.

It is no powerhouse composed of former prep and high school captains.

It has no individual standouts. Snavely calls it the smartest team he ever coached and one "that learns more in less time than any team I ever had."

It is a team in every sense of the word—even Snavely refuses to single out any man.

It is that because Snavely is above all a master-organizer.

The Harvard Crimson may cry out that Cornell has recruited this football team, and it's true that Cornell did establish a system of alumni-backed regional scholarships when Snavely took over in 1936 after having coached at Kiski, University of Cincinnati, Bellefonte Academy, Bucknell and North Carolina.

But that alumni drive has lost much of its headway, and on today's Cornell squad there are only six men holding regional scholarships—three on the first team, blocking back Walt Matuszczak, triple-threat Hal McCullough and wingback Bill Murphy.

One other regular holds a scholarship in the scholastically-tough engineering school. He is right end Alva Kelley, an honor student who won his scholarship after he'd been in Cornell a year and who is bright enough to tutor other engineering school students.

Many of them have jobs—legitimate, working-at jobs. Nick Drahos, All-America tackle in 1939, is a proctor and has a kitchen job to take care of his room and board. There are others—center Bud Finneran and end Kirk Hershey, among them—whose families are well-to-do.

Material On Hand

Material?

Certainly it's there. With Cornell at least two deep in every position except possibly center and blocking back. But it is hand-tailored material almost exclusively, including players who quite conceivably would not even be on the varsity squad at many other colleges.

Finneran, the 60-minute center against Ohio State, is an example, who intercepted three passes.

Originally he was a halfback, too slow to fit into Snavely's split-second system of executing plays. Now he is a bearcat on defense, and on offense a reliable passer, a crack blocker when he pulls out to run interference, and a hard driver who helps make Mort Landsberg go on on spin-bucks.

Landsberg was buried on the Jayvees until Cornell lost its two fullbacks, Eichler and Brown, last fall, but Snavely had spotted his spunk and drive and today, besides being a smooth ball-handler and faker, he cracks his 174 pounds into the biggest lines time and again for impressive gains and piles up valuable yardage running back punts as safety man.

Then there's Lou Conti, star guard. This Philadelphia lad did not even play football in high school. At Cornell he tried out as a back. Snavey noticed in movies of a practice that Conti could throw a terrific block. Now he's one of the stalwarts of a fine line.

Howie Dunbar, 205-pounder at the other guard, came to Cornell as an end. Kirk Hershey, regular left end until a knee injury took him out and brought in Jim Schmuck, was a guard.

Makes Men Over

They are makeovers—just as was the powerful 1938 line, seven men of whom only one played the same position for Snavely which he had held down before coming to Cornell.

All that is organization, the ability to make the most of what you have. Organization is the keynote of Snavely's coaching.

It takes in even the numbering of the players—the regular ends, 83 and 93; McCullough, Murphy and Landsberg, who handle the ball in the starting backfield, 63, 36 and 53; Scholl and Bufalino, who do most of the work in the second backfield, 56 and 66.

Snavely's reply to the suggestion that this was done to confuse rival scouts is, in his slow drawl:

"No, that wasn't my idea. I just didn't want any boy coming to me and asking for an outstanding number. That's the only thing I've taken into account in our numbering."

Whether the intention is to confuse scouts or whether it isn't, in the Ohio State game even the Cornell spotter in the press box called a pass play as from Scholl to Jenkins, 86, when actually the ball went to Bufalino, 56.

Snavely stays with the regulars in practice sessions. He clocks the number of plays they can run off in a certain period. If things go smoothly, he compliments the boys. If they're slow, he keeps driving them. He rarely raises his voice, and if a player has an idea of his own on how an assignment should be varied, he lets him try it out.

Fred West, the tackle, wound up far over to one side on a certain play. Snavely, spotting him, called out:

"West, what are you doing over there?"

"Just thought I'd try it this way, coach," was the sheepish reply.

"Did it work?" Snavely asked.

"No," said West.

"That's what I thought," said Snavey with a grin. There was a laugh from the team that eased the tension for a moment, and then the practice picked up its pace again.

Speed Is Vital

Speed is essential to the Snavely system. After two hours of hard work, trainer Frank Kavanagh, the man responsible for keeping the boys in A-1 shape, lines them up across the goal line. A 100-yard sprint to the other end of the field, a moment to catch their breaths, and back they come at top speed.

Vols Schedule Dayton, Cincy

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7 — Two Ohio football teams, enjoying moderately successful 1940s, are going to invade the big time in a modest way next year.

The pair, both members of the late lamented Buckeye conference, are the University of Cincinnati Bearcats and the University of Dayton Flyers, and the big time is the high flying University of Tennessee Vols, 1939 Rose Bowl team.

A glance at the Vols' 1941 schedule raises some question as to whether the Ohio boys are invading or being taken on for breathers. The Flyers go to Knoxville Oct. 11, a week after the Tennessee-Duke game and a week before Alabama gets there. The Bearcats are put down for Oct. 25, at Knoxville, between Alabama and Louisiana State. Dayton takes Florida's place on the schedule and Cincinnati moves in for Virginia.

However, it may be pointed out that Navy booked the Bearcats for a breather this year and the Middies were breathing hard before they won the ball game. Carnegie Tech also came to town odds on and went home with nothing much but the satisfaction of making a lot of first downs that made no victory.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

YESTERDAY: Sally just has arrived at the country place near Atlanta which she and her husband, Bill, have rebuilt. Rain threatens, and when she arrives She finds nobody, not even the servants, at home. She thinks she sees Kirk, one of her guests, run away as she approaches, and although Aunt Maggie, whose specialty is looking up genealogies, has crashed the party, not even Aunt Maggie can be found.

Warning

NO DOUBT she had gone to Roswell with Bessie and Andrew. After all, it was rather spooky to be at Wisteria Hall alone, even in the daytime, as I myself had just discovered. As I turned to leave the study, one of the papers on the desk caught my eye. It was propped against the inkwell and, yielding to impulse, I picked it up, though I was usually bored with items which so often excited Aunt Maggie. The writing was in a fine, flowing script, probably that of my great-great-grandfather, but the text seemed palpably absurd when associated with the portrait of that austere old gentleman.

It was a sort of pingle about steps and hands and feet and what not, and though I did not examine it very carefully, it seemed to make no sense whatever.

I placed the paper back as I found it, mystified as to why Aunt Maggie should have singled it out, unless perhaps as a curiosity to show that our ancestor had been a riddle addict.

Descending to the stair landing, I brought my bag up to the big bedroom on the second floor which I was to share with Bill. Here again I was arrested by an unexpected bit of paper, this time lying on the old mahogany bureau.

Thinking it only a scrap of paper left there inadvertently by Bessie or Andrew as they put the house in order, I came near tossing it into the wastebasket without looking at it, for it was a bit of green wrapping paper of the sort used by one of Atlanta's largest department stores. Any housewife in the city would recognize it anywhere. But no housewife ever regarded a stranger message on more familiar paper, for upon it was printed in pencil:

"Leave this place at once. Your life is in danger."

Back in town I would have been sure it was a joke, but here alone, my morale already shaken, I stood turning the paper over in my fingers uncertainly until the slamming of a door below-stairs startled me out of my trance. At the sound, relief swept over me like a wave. Here at last were the servants. Or anyway, here was someone. Here was help. Thrusting the paper carelessly into the top bureau drawer, I fairly flew down the stairs, calling out to Bessie, Andrew, Aunt Maggie as I went.

But I received no answer and downstairs I still found no one. Nor did I find any door shut which I remembered as being open when I went upstairs. But outside, the wind had begun to blow and the rain that I had dreaded was already falling.

Seeking haven in the telephone closet under the stairway, I closed the door behind me and tried to reach my husband's office. There was no answer; but when I called the number of our home in Atlanta, the voice of my little girl's nurse was so reassuring that I began to get hold of myself again.

Yes'm, little Sally was having her nap. Grandma Stuart was having a nap, too. Mr. Bill had stopped by the house just a little while ago, but said he had some errands to do and Miss Eve to pick up before he went to the country. Yes, Ma'am, he said he had to pick up Miss Eve. No'm, there hadn't been no calls from Miss Maggie or Bessie or Andrew.

Miss Eve. Well, that was news. Eve had not been asked to the house party. She had not even been in town when it was planned yesterday. I laughed a little hysterically when I realized that the problem presented by an extra guest had for the moment shoved into the background the thought of that mysterious message in my bedroom.

But it was not just an extra guest, not just an extra woman, so much as the fact that it was Eve Benedict. Everybody knew Eve had been far too fond of Bob Dunbar when she divorced Frank Benedict last year. Eve was never a good loser. And Eve at an engagement party for Claire and Bob meant trouble in anybody's language.

Sometimes it was a little difficult to remember Eve as the thin, rather awkward girl who had been a couple of grades ahead of me in grammar school. She had been known as Evelyn then Evelyn Pruitt. The thinness had changed to a seductive slimness as she grew up and she had married well both times.

As Frank Benedict's wife, we had naturally seen something of her. But Aunt Maggie had never approved of Eve's background, or of what she called her "antecedents." Aunt Maggie also disapproved quite frankly of her appearance, for Eve's figure now verged on voluptuousness and in the rather bizarre clothes she wore, with her black hair slicked back and her black eyes all made up, she was quite sophisticated looking. Yes, with the engaged pair and Aunt Maggie, Eve would certainly be an addition to the party.

Eve is a sort of forty-second cousin of mine, but I suppose the South is the only section of the country where such relationships can still be used as an excuse to crash a party you haven't been invited to, or indeed are counted at all. I resolved that I would tell Bill a thing or two for not insisting that she telephone me beforehand.

But anyway, I might as well arrange the flowers. First of all, the long-stemmed gladioli for the tall vases on the tables in the hall. Then there were the red roses and white stock to be mixed for the dining-room table, and the yellow roses for the library and the drawing room.

Busy in the dining room, I stopped dead still for a moment to listen, quite certain I had heard footsteps in the kitchen.

But when I went to investigate, I could find no one. Afterward, as I passed from room to room, I caught myself looking behind me, and in each room I felt all the lights turned on. Outside, it was getting dark and the rain, whipped by the wind, beat against the windows and tore at the blinds. As I crouched on the hearth in the library, trying to rebuild the fire, the conviction grew upon me that someone, not friendly, was concealed in the house.

It was all right to tell myself that I was a fool, that it was only the wind and the rain. But, try as I might, I could not bring myself to leave that room and go back upstairs and dress.

Finally, darting quickly from one to the other, I did close both doors. But as I sank down in the wing chair by the fire, which somehow failed to warm me, it seemed to me that the light, shining on the silver door-knobs, lent them a gleam somehow sinister. I turned my chair so I could not see either one. So I could not see it turn when something nameless grasped one of those door-knobs from the other side.

Out of doors the wind blew harder and the rain was swept in sheets against the old house Sitting there, gripped by a paralysis of fear, I wondered if anybody ever would come.

Enter Eve

The hands of the old clock on the mantel pointed to ten minutes of five when I heard the sound of an automobile horn in the driveway. At first I was almost afraid to believe my ears. I had strained them so against the moans of the wind, the lash of the rain, listening to hear that familiar sound. But now it was repeated, this time with two short blasts and one long. Our private signal. Bill was here. Everything would be all right.

That tall, red-haired, rather matter-of-fact young man who is my husband was probably a little startled at the ardor of my greeting. If husbands are ever surprised at anything. Eve had preceded him in with a great flourish of silver fox. "Knew you wouldn't want to have a house-warming without me," she announced a little defensively, "so when I heard about it, when I got in from New York this morning, I just called Bill and told him I was coming along."

"You were never more welcome," I said sincerely, for at that moment any familiar face looked heaven-sent. "But it is really not a housewarming," I explained. "That is not to be until Christmas Eve. This is just a little party for Claire and Bob. I suppose Bill has told you the news."

"So the international beauty finally won out," she commented flippantly. This has been Eve's choice designation for Claire ever since one of our Atlanta newspapers had grown fulsome on the subject of Claire's appearance when she was presented at court in London. And it is true that Claire is quite exceptionally lovely, with her Titian hair, her priceless skin and her eyes which are gray, blue or green by turns, depending upon her mood or her costume.

"Well," Eve continued, "love certainly does work wonders, especially love and money. The thought of Bob with a sudden yen for the country in midwinter was just a little to much. I decided I had to come and see for myself. I suppose it all comes from my having left town at the wrong time."

"But where is Andrew?" asked Bill, as he struggled in with the bags.

"That's a funny thing," I said, but before I could explain why it was funny, another car swept up the drive, a car which turned out to be the missing station wagon, and Aunt Maggie was deposited at the front door. Bill's raised eyebrows, as he went forward to meet her, reminded me that this was his first intimation that she was to be among those present.

"How are you, Willie?" Aunt Maggie made things even better by greeting Bill with the nickname he detests

STILL IN DOUBT

Editor of the Sta... The fog has gone from all the skies, the headaches now it seems prevailing. The truth has crowded out the lies and left the losers now a wailing; and now that election is past and gone we may settle down to old time living. The only thing that bothers me, we can't tell when will be Thanksgiving.
